Former President George Bush makes a point during his speech Saturday at Andover's 350th Anniversary Banquet, held at Merrimack College's Volpe Center. Organizers estimate 1,067 people attended. That's the anniversary quilt behind Mr. Bush, made by a group of 20 local quilters under the direction of Joan Ross and representing more than 1,200 hours of work.

By Don Staruk

Witnesses to the arrest of a skateboarder and another man at The Park adjacent to town offices last Thursday, May 9, say poor judgment and excessive force by police escalated the incident. A 16-year-old and two policemen were slightly injured during a struggle after an officer tried to confiscate a skateboard belonging to the juvenile.

Dan Tanner, 16, of Carmel Road, was charged with assault and battery on a police officer, disorderly conduct and resisting arrest. He was released to his mother Thursday evening and was arraigned in Lawrence District Court Tuesday.

Joshua E. Hancock, 19, of 21 Memorial Circle, was charged with disorderly conduct and resisting arrest. He was bailed out by his grandmother, arraigned Friday and released on bail. Dan Tanner was arraigned Tuesday and released without bail. A pre-trial hearing is scheduled for June 4.

The incident began with what police saw as careless and dangerous skateboarding. Mr. Tanner, his friends, an adult who witnessed the incident, and Mr. Tanner's mother say police overreacted and used more force, and foul language, than warranted.

Police version

Police would not release Officer Joseph Ouellette's full report of the incident, but Lt. Richard Enos summarized parts of it.

According to the report, the "usual crowd" of youths were hanging out in The Park at about 3:45 p.m., where Officer Ouellette was assigned to patrol, due to a recent number of incidents there after-school. Officer Ouellette saw Mr. Tanner "flying" down the sidewalk near the Senior Center on Whittier Court on his skateboard, then going backward out into the street and just missing an MVRTA bus. The boy then turned and, as Officer Ouellette saw it, tried to catch up to the bus to grab the bumper.

Officer Ouellette went to talk to the boy and to confiscate the skateboard. The youth refused to hand over the board and when Officer Ouellette attempted to take it away the boy allegedly pushed him.

"He gave the officer a shove," Lt. Richard Enos said.

The boy then threw the skateboard to some other kids who were standing nearby and they disappeared with it.

Officer Ouellette attempted to arrest the youth for being disorderly but Mr. Tanner allegedly resisted. Officer Ronald Hagerty showed up and the two of them tried to arrest and handcuff the boy, but were unable to control him. "They actually wrestled and (all three) fell to the ground," Lt. Enos said.

About 30 kids had gathered by this time and Mr. Hancock was yelling and screaming at the officers, stirring up the rest of the crowd, according to the report.

More officers arrived and police still could not cuff the boy. The officers finally threatened to use pepper spray to subdue him, but the boy continued to struggle, the report said. The officers then sprayed him and he stopped struggling and was cuffed.

Mr. Hancock was still yelling at the officers, threatening them. They attempted to arrest him for being a disorderly person, but he resisted, pushing and wrestling with police, until he, too, was threatened with the pepper spray. At that point he relented and was handcuffed. Officer Ouellette suffered a sprain or bruise to his shoulder. Officer Hagerty jammed his thumb, possibly spraining it.

Victim's version

Mr. Tanner, a sophomore at Andover High, said he did not skateboard on the sidewalk and did not cut in front of the bus.

"I've never done that. I wouldn't do that. I've never seen anyone hold onto the back of a bus," Mr. Tanner said. "That wasn't my intention."

When Officer Ouellette asked for his skateboard, he asked

Train-whistle meeting postponed

By Don Staruk

U.S. Rep. Marty Meehan, D-Mass., postponed a meeting tentatively scheduled for last Monday, May 13, in Acton where residents and federal officials were going to discuss the blowing of train whistles in Andover and other Fifth District communities.

Mark Walsh, district director for Rep. Meehan, said last Thursday that the congressman delayed the meeting in an effort to garner more involvement from federal officials. He said it would be rescheduled in the next few weeks.

The meeting will be held before the end of June, he said. Representatives from the Federal Railroad Administration and the Department of Transportation had been invited to take part in the discussion.

The sounding of the whistles has been an issue in town since 1992 when a change in railroad policy brought whistle blowing back at rail crossings here. Petitions from residents and the town to the Department of Public Utilities failed to quiet the whistles, and at the December 1994 Special Town Meeting, residents voted to petition the Legislature to ban train whistles. A bill banning the blowing of most of the whistles in Andover was signed into law in June of last year and went into effect July 1.

However, pending federal regulations would require the use of the whistles at rail crossings nationwide, overriding the state ban. Implementation of those regula-

Commission on Disabilities driving for more service

By Neil Fater

Mike Warshawsky wants to get to and from work on his own, and that means using public transportation. But to do this is going to cost taxpayers money.

Mr. Warshawsky, who uses a wheelchair, wants to see the Merrimack Valley Regional Transit Authority (MVRTA) expand its wheel-chair accessible public transportation service.

"We're hoping to get it expanded to the whole town and to increase the hours," said Mr. Warshawsky, vice-chairman of the Commission on Disabilities. "I'm guided by kind of a selfish concern because I'd like to be independent."

To obtain service from his home to his Tewksbury work place, Mr. Warshawsky said he would have to call Dial-A-Ride, which would cost him more than $20 per day. This is not something most people can afford.

If he was able to use Weebus service it would cost him a reasonable $4 per day, he said.

Mr. Warshawsky made a presentation regarding what he calls paratransit to MVRTA officials and state Sen. John O'Brien, D-Andover, Wednesday, May 8.

"He gave a very good presentation. What struck me was he really went through both the positives and the negatives. It wasn't a complaint session, it was very instructive," said Sen. O'Brien. "However, we went through the reality of the cost."

Sen. O'Brien said funding increased MVRTA service could be difficult because the state has a 3 percent cap on budget increases and local contributions are contained by Proposition 2%. MVRTA officials are determining the price tag for expansion, he said.

"I guess the bottom line is coming down to money. We're probably going to have to write a warrant (article) for next year's Town Meeting," said Mr. Warshawsky.

Although money may be a roadblock, Sen. O'Brien noted disabled individuals are not the only people who want increased public transportation in Andover and the Merrimack Valley. He said he's also heard requests for increased service from

Fire and police: Beware of phone solicitors

By Don Staruk

Andover Fire Department officials are warning residents this week not to be taken in by a group of telephone solicitors who may give the impression they are raising money for the Andover Firefighters Association.

"We don't endorse it, support it or have anything to do with that outfit, and not a dime of it comes back to the Andover Fire Department," Deputy Fire Chief Chuck Murnane said Tuesday.

Firefighter Jim Landry said Monday the department had received several calls from residents questioning whether the group was legitimate. Many said they'd been asked to leave checks in their mailboxes. One of the callers was Andover police Sgt. James Hashem, whose mother, Joyce, of Samos Lane, had agreed to donate, but who was leery about her being asked to leave money in the mailbox.

Fire Chief Harold Hayes talked with someone with the company last week and asked them to stop soliciting in this area, but they have not stopped, Deputy Murnane said. Andover Police Lt. Jack Houlihan, detectives division commander, has looked into the group and said, "They're walking on a really fine line with legality," according to Deputy Murnane.

The group is registered with the attorney general's office as United States Charitable Publications, according to Detective Paul Gallagher of the North Andover Police Department. Two employees of the company were arrested in North Andover last week when they claimed to be soliciting donations for the North Andover and Andover Disabled Police Officers Association, "which does not exist," Lt. Gallagher said. They wanted $400 and said "it was for helping local police officers, which it was not," Lt. Gallagher said.

The two men, one from Manchester, N.H., and the other from Lowell, were each charged with fraud and larceny by false pretenses.

Detective Todd Himmer, of the senior citizens and people who want to use public transportation to go into Boston for an evening.

"It's not just the disabled," said Sen. O'Brien. "There are different groups out there that need this."

Although the last regular weekday commuter train arrives in Andover at 7:05 p.m., paratransit or Weebus service runs only until 7 p.m., said Mr. Warshawsky. On Saturday, Weebus service ends at 6:30 p.m., just before the 6:38 train.

Mr. Warshawsky would also like the MVRTA to link with other regional transit services so that he and others can travel farther on public transportation.

Building Committee, town looking at scheduling options

By Neil Fater

With Stone-Congress, the contractor for the Andover High School construction project, continuing to change its completion dates, Andover officials are reviewing their options.

Stone-Congress' latest schedule says the contractor won't finish areas such as the new gymnasium, the main lobby, the cafeteria, and the library until August. As a result, officials are considering how to get the project completed more quickly.

"I'd say completed period, without disrupting the operations of the school," said Sharman Lapin, project manager.

Michael Parsons, School Building Committee member, said the committee met recently in executive session to discuss related issues.

Susan Jenkins, committee member, said only that the committee met to discuss litigation.

Skateboard arrest

why? "I said 'no' because he wouldn't answer," the boy said.

Officer Ouellette grabbed his wrist, Mr. Tanner said, and demanded the board. "When he grabbed my wrist I said, 'Can you let go of my wrist please. I just want to talk to you.'"

Mr. Tanner turned to look at his friends and Officer Ouellette tried to put him into some kind of hold, like a head-lock, Mr. Tanner said. "The cop gave me no warning that I was being arrested," he said.

Mr. Tanner said he somehow slipped out of the hold, but that he did not push or shove the officer. "I never laid a hand on him," Mr. Tanner said.

Officer Ouellette still had him by the wrist, and Mr. Tanner threw his skateboard to a friend. Another cruiser pulled in and one of the officers immediately ran toward Mr. Tanner and seemed to try and tackle him. Mr. Tanner insists he kept repeating that he was not resisting. He was trying to stay on his feet, he said. Then there were three officers on him and they all fell to the ground, he said.

"As far as the other officers hurting themselves when we fell to the ground, that's their fault. I wasn't struggling other than to stay on my feet," he said.

On the ground, one officer was twisting Mr. Tanner's neck and he was scared he wouldn't be able to breathe, he said. An officer was telling him to give the officer his other wrist, but officers were holding both his arms, he said. "I was just screaming, 'I'm not resisting. I'm not resisting,'" he said.

Mr. Tanner said he was hit with the pepper spray without warning and for no reason. He said he was being held down by three officers when Officer Cecilia Blais came from her cruiser, pointed the spray at his face, said something like "See how you like this in your face punk," and sprayed. He started to scream and the police all let him go and cuffed him, the boy said.

An officer was then telling him to get up and trying to pull him up, but with his hands cuffed and in the position he was in, he couldn't get to his feet, Mr. Tanner said. The officer then pulled him up by his hair, he said, and roughly threw him into the cruiser.

Mr. Tanner's brother, Zech, 18, and Jinsen Liu, 19, a 1995 AHS graduate now attending Boston University, both of whom witnessed the incident, said some of Dan Tanner's hair was ripped out of his head and he was bleeding.

Mr. Liu said the officers fell to the ground after Officer Ouellette tried to trip Mr. Tanner but missed. He also said there were up to five officers on Mr. Tanner at one point. Five or six cruisers and six or seven officers were there by the end, Mr. Liu said. Mr. Liu also corroborated that Mr. Tanner the entire time repeatedly yelled that he was not resisting.

One officer was saying, "I'm going to break your (expletive) neck," and another was saying, "I'm going to break your (expletive) arm," Mr. Tanner said. "My neck was twisted and someone else was pulling my hair."

He had bruises on his neck, head, face and wrists. The officer taking him to the station said none of this would have happened if he hadn't been a "wise ass," Mr. Tanner said.

"I'm just surprised this whole thing happened over the fact that I was skateboarding," Mr. Tanner said. "I definitely think they overreacted. I wasn't doing anything wrong. If you can consider skateboarding doing something wrong in Andover, then yes, I was skateboarding."

Witnesses

Ruthann Tanner, Dan and Zech's mother, said Michelle Martin, of 2 Chestnut Court, called her Thursday night and said she'd witnessed the incident and was stunned by the police officer's behavior, Ms. Tanner said.

Mr. Liu said Ms. Martin confronted Officer Ouellette while he was still holding Mr. Tanner's wrist, saying he was using excessive force, but the officer told her to go back into her house.

Ms. Martin was crying by the time the incident was over. When she complained to police at the scene, one officer asked if she wasn't the one who had often called police about the kids leaving garbage in front of her house. Ms. Martin said she was and the officer said something to the effect that, "Well. We'll see if we ever respond again," Ms. Tanner said.

Ms. Tanner went to the police station after arriving home Thursday night and Zech told her what had happened. She was very upset and one officer was very nice at first, but later became upset at her. She asked what he would do if it were his son, and was allegedly told he would take his son home and slap him around and he would learn respect for the law.

"Isn't that child abuse?" Ms. Tanner said in a meeting with the Townsmen.

Another officer came out and said something to the effect that, "No wonder the son is a trouble maker, look at the mother," according to Ms. Tanner. She is a single mother and was upset by the comments. With no one else to turn to, she went to the newspaper for help.

"I think that this was a very violent incident that wasn't necessary," she said. "I'm not saying my son is an angel. I do believe that if the police told my son to give them his skateboard he should have given it to them. I just think it was not handled properly from the very beginning. I don't think there should have been any arrest made."

Lt. Enos said people should understand that both the young men arrested are not little kids. Mr. Tanner is 5 foot 8 inches tall, 170 to 175 pounds. "And he's a rugged kid," Lt. Enos said. The officers were commenting on how strong he was, the lieutenant said. Mr. Hancock is about 6 feet tall, 190 pounds. Mr. Hancock was threatening the officers' lives and their families, in the cruiser and back at the station, Lt. Enos said.

"I would like them to drop the charges against my son," Ms. Tanner said this week. "He failed to reply to the request of the police officer by not giving him his skateboard. But assault and battery on a police officer. I don't think so. I intend to fight it."

Ms. Tanner said Tuesday she contacted a lawyer who has agreed to take the case. She said she has obtained the names of 17 youth witnesses and Ms. Martin. She has gotten the same facts of the story supporting her son's version from each witness she has questioned, she said.

"I'm not going to let it go. If he didn't do it, I will back him up completely and I will fight it."

Swearing and threats

Mr. Tanner said he was surprised with how vulgar the police were in dealing with him. He said they used vulgar language to describe him. "I was swearing at them, but that was because they were swearing at me," he said.

His mother said police should be able to control their own behavior. "Two wrongs don't make a right," she said.

Seven youths, five of whom witnessed the incident, told the Townsmen last Thursday they'd gone to the police station to file a complaint against the police involved, but were threatened with arrest if they didn't leave the lobby.

Police reaction

Lt. Phillip Froburg, police operations commander, said Monday he did not want to "get into the nuts and bolts" of the incident because it is a court case.

"I think he ought to tell it to the judge," the lieutenant said. "The officers have a job to do. They are criticized if they don't do something. They are criticized if they do something. We have been getting complaints since the weather became better from people in town (offices) and residents who live on that Whittier extension. It's a clash between the uses of the street."

Sidewalks were made for pedestrian traffic. Streets are for motorized traffic. The problem is that now there are bicycles, skateboards and in-line skates moving in on the other uses, he said.

In this case, the officer tried to talk to the kids and the next thing you know there are two arrests, he said. "I wasn't there. Obviously, there was a confrontation there," Lt. Froburg said. "Something started this, and why the police are now being looked at like they overreacted - I have a tough time accepting that."

"From reading the reports I see some very inappropriate behavior by the young people up there, whether they think the police officer was justified or not," Lt. Froburg said. Both language and activity used by the young people were out of line, he said.

Asked about the language allegedly used by the officers, Lt. Froburg said, "I don't condone any officer using language like that, but I don't expect them to be door mats either. The policy is to treat people with respect. "But, if you're going to treat me a certain way, then you're going to be treated in a like manner."

He did not think profanity was a big issue here. "I really think the language thing is a cheap shot," Lt. Froburg said.

Lt. Froburg said there were no reports on any kids being thrown out of the police station. "We don't take a complaint just because someone says 'I want to file a complaint,'" Lt. Froburg said. There needs to be substance to the complaint, he said. If the kids were disruptive, then they'd have been asked to leave.

Skateboard park?

In the wake of last week's arrests, Lt. Froburg will continue to work with youth leaders and others to find a place for kids to skateboard and skate in town.

Lt. Froburg said Monday that he has talked to North Andover officials and seen the skateboard park they have, and he does not see why Andover couldn't have one. A proposal could come before selectmen and/or the School Committee soon, possibly before summer, he said.

The lieutenant has been working on the plans with Bill Fahey, Andover's Youth Services director; the owner of Catch the Wave skateboard shop on Post Office Avenue; and Peg Campbell at the Department of Community Services. He will talk with Jim Bamford, parks director, about possible locations for the park, and with public works regarding sites at Doherty and West middle schools. Lt. Froburg is leaning toward the West Middle School site.

AFE awards grants to 5 local educators

The Andover Fund for Education announced that five local educators have been honored. Their projects and grants are:

- Louise Tomlinson, Andover High School, for "History of Art Highlights"; $300 toward the purchase of 100 color slides and four large color prints, representing important images from five major periods in Western art. The material will be used by approximately 60 students in the High School's Humanities course.

- Mary Kim Bourdeau, Doherty Middle School, for "Innovations" and "Electronics Lab"; $250 for books, curriculum materials, software and supplies for an elective course on the creative process of inventing; also, $250 for the purchase of two electronic lab kits that would allow students to construct computer circuits, lie detectors, short-wave radios and other projects. Eighth-grade students will use these resources next year.

◀ Gabi Yagupsky, one of two educators from the New England Aquarium who accompanied the whale exhibit, welcomed the students with the deflated whale model lying on the floor. They watch as it is inflated to its full 42-foot length.

Photos by Lisa Adelsberger

The exhibit's centerpiece is a 42-foot-long inflatable model of a right whale named Lucky, who lives in the wild. Lucky was spotted again last year in the Bay of Fundy, off the Canadian coast.

Shawsheen hosts Whale Days

Shawsheen School hosted Whale Days, the New England Aquarium's traveling outreach program for school children in grades K-2, on Tuesday and Wednesday last week.

Whale Days is a hands-on program featuring models and interactive exhibits that teach children about whales and other marine mammals, such as sea lions, seals, and dolphins.

The exhibit's centerpiece is a 42-foot-long inflatable model of a right whale named Lucky, who now lives in the wild. The program was held in the school's gymnasium - decorated with marine mammal murals created by the children - because it was the only room large enough to hold the inflated model and all the exhibits.

Gabi Yagupsky and Brian Vogel, two educators from the New England Aquarium, accompanied the exhibit and welcomed each group of students with the deflated whale model lying on the floor. After an introductory discussion, they had the children surround the model and watch as it was inflated to its full size. Students were then free to try out the hands-on activities, including radio and telemetry equipment used to track whales, a map to trace whale migration routes, real whalebones to touch, a stuffed dissectible model of a white-sided dolphin, models of marine-mammal brains, an echo-location experiment, and many more.

Along with the Shawsheen teachers, parent volunteers gave their time so the children could make optimum use of the exhibits. On each of the days, between 15 and 20 moms and dads helped students to conduct experiments and learn from the results.

After trying out all of the activities, the students surrounded the life-sized model of Lucky as it was deflated for the next group. The children volunteered their thoughts about what they had learned. The experience was aptly summed up by kindergartner Andrew Richardson: "Ooohhhh, that was awesome!"

The program was sponsored by the Shawsheen PTO and Andover Fund for Education. Organizers of this event were Shawsheen School PTO members Jennifer Cullen-Struhl, Jill Mainiero, and Susan Richardson.

Kristin Costagliola provides proof that Whale Days is a hands-on program. Whale Days features models and interactive exhibits that teach children about whales and other marine mammals.

With only a few short weeks to go, jungle fever for the fourth annual AHS senior graduation celebration is spreading. This year's Senior Safari committee, headed by senior chairwomen Mary Ann Scaia and Sandy Parziale and junior chairwomen Judy Lugus and Maureen Schofield, is putting the final touches on the preparations borne of hours of non-stop planning by hundreds of volunteers.

When it started four years ago, then-chairwomen Judy Reghitto and Jane Batts intended the safari to be the final celebration for graduates after a long day, which included the high school award breakfast, the long-awaited graduation and family dinners. This was to be an all-night, drug- and alcohol-free celebration where graduates could dance, sing, play games, eat, sign yearbooks, create a time capsule, and say their goodbyes before embarking on the next stages of their lives.

After a successful first-year, three more Safaris have been planned with parents and community in a partnership, organizers said.

Fundraisers have included dinners at Papa Gino's, sales at the Mercantile, parent-, community-, business- and alumni donations, ticket sales and Mother's Day plant sales... all to raise the thousands needed to put together such an event.

Tax-deductible donations are still being accepted and can be sent to Linda Langone, treasurer, c/o the High School, Shawsheen Road. "The epigram 'It takes a village to raise a child' becomes more meaningful with every passing year, and the committee members are most appreciative of all the support they have been given," organizers said.

Martin-Rittershaus

Laurie Ann Rittershaus and Steven Martin were married at St. Augustine Church. The ceremony was performed by Deacon John Capomaccio.

Cheryl Rittershaus was her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Rebecca Cargill, Lori Gardiner, Denise Morey and Nancy Walsh. Paige and Devin Arsenaault were flower girls.

Herman Martin Jr. served as best man. Ushers were Michael Conte, Dean Georgoudis, Brian Rittershaus and Charles Shaw. Aaron Martin was ringbearer.

Following a reception at Andover Country Club, the couple left for a cruise to the Grand Cayman Islands.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Francis Rittershaus of Andover. She is a graduate of Roger Williams College, with a bachelor's degree in business management. She is an accounting coordinator.

Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Martin of Bristol, R.I. He received a

Clown Town is Saturday in The Park

The Andona Society will hold its annual Clown Town this Saturday, May 18, from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in The Park at the corner of Chestnut and Bartlet streets.

This year it will feature carnival rides, pony rides and hay rides (behind Doherty Middle School), face painting, games, picture-taking behind backdrops, balloons, grab-bags, and a petting zoo. The candy stand will be open and new crafts and T-shirts will be available for purchase.

The Andover High School varsity football cheerleaders will hold a demonstration at 10:30 a.m.

Brian Corcoran, a local children's entertainer, will offer a sing-along near the bandstand at 11:30 a.m.

The big show in Doherty Middle School auditorium will feature the Confetti Kids at 1 and 3 p.m. Tickets are $1 and may be purchased at the door or from any Andona member. Handicapped access to Memorial Auditorium is by the Bartlet Street entrance, near town offices.

Prizes in this year's raffle include an autographed UMass basketball, $100 gift certificate to Cycle Shop, gift certificates to Andover Basketball School and Andover Baseball School, a $50 gift certificate to Learning Express, two sports pass to all AHS soccer, football and basketball games for the 1996-'97 season, two tickets to Andover Historical Society House and Garden Tour, wash, cut and style from Allure Salon, gift certificate for two manicures from On the Nail, $15 gift certificate to Underground Music, and Skidoo Teddy Bear from Crispin's Bears Inc.

Raffle tickets can be purchased near the bandstand for $1 each, or six for $5.

The drawing will be held at 3:30 p.m. at the bandstand.

Lunch will include veggie pockets, sausage and pepper subs, hamburgers, hot dogs and pizza. Desserts will include ice cream, slush, popcorn and cotton candy. A bakery table will be stocked with homemade pies, cakes, breads and cookies. The white-elephant table will feature garage sale items, including toys, books, and housewares.

This year's Clown Town chairwomen are Maureen Zonghetti (features), Cindy McLaughlin (field), Nancy Neri (finance) and Lois Murphy (food).

The Andona Society is a nonprofit women's fund-raising organization founded in 1952. Information on joining Andona will be available at the Clown Town membership table near the bandstand.

All of the proceeds are used to benefit Andover youth activities, including Andover schools athletic, civic and cultural programs, Andover/North Andover YMCA youth programs, Andover Youth Baseball, Greater Lawrence Community Boating, and Department of Community Services programs.

Organizers emphasize that due to safety considerations, cars cannot park on The Park side of Chestnut Street. Park in municipal parking lots.

350th events include concert of American songs

A retrospective of classic American popular songs by composers such as William Billings, Stephen Foster, Irving Berlin, Cole Porter, Aaron Copland, and Randall Thompson will be featured at the New England Classical Singers' 350th celebration concert this Saturday, May 18, at 8 p.m. at the Merrimack College Chapel.

The program will also include the world premiere of Voices of Remembrance, an original choral work commissioned by the NECS as a tribute to the Andovers for the 350th celebration. Boston-area composer Kenneth Seitz has set to music poetry of three poets native to the area: Anne Bradstreet (Andover); Henry Henderson Clark (Georgetown); and John Greenleaf Whittier (Haverhill). Howard Hanson's Song of Democracy will complete the concert.

This evening of American songs will be presented by the New England Classical Singers and members of the Pythagorean Festival Orchestra, under the direction of David Tierney.

Tickets are available at a special 350th price of $5 at the Andover Book Store on Main Street, at the door Saturday night, or by calling 688-2816.

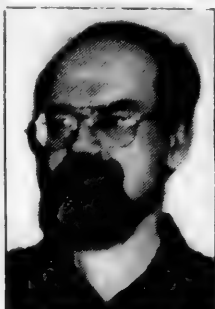

Main Street Madness

Main Street, from Chestnut Street to Elm Square, will be closed to traffic all day Saturday, June 1, and handed over to Andover teen-agers.

Are blue-ribbon specimens lurking in your yard?

If you've always admired your flowering shrubs, vines and perennials, and wondered if they were "blue-ribbon" material, here's your chance to find out.

The Andover Garden Club, The Spade and Trowel and Village Garden Clubs will present "A Tribute to Andover's Historical Beginnings," a Standard Flower Show, Thursday and Friday, June 6 and 7, at the Christian Formation Center on River Road.

Although much of the show will focus on floral designs interpretive of historic Andover homes and public buildings, the Horticulture Division organizers are eager to get their hands on your horticulture specimens and allow the judges to select a blue-ribbon winner.

It's easy to participate. Just stop by at the 350th Anniversary Store at Old Town Hall, (11 a.m.-2:30 p.m. weekdays, 9:30-11 a.m. weekends), pick up a Horticulture Division schedule, get your pruners and head for your backyard.

Your favorite iris just might surprise you.

Entries will be accepted Wednesday, June 5.

Guzowski Scholarship dinner is June 14

The 1996 Ann Guzowski Memorial Scholarship will be presented to a graduating Andover High School student at the Scholarship Fund's biannual dinner, 7:30 p.m., Friday, June 14, at the Unitarian Universalist Church, 6 Locke St.

The Ann Guzowski Scholarship Fund, with the help of the Andover Democratic Town Committee, has raised and distributed more than $10,000 in the form of scholarships to students pursuing careers in public service, and to the Junior Statesman Program at Andover High School.

The annual scholarship, which is $1,000, is presented in memory of Ann Guzowski, whom organizers called "a caring and compassionate woman who worked hard for and believed strongly in the Democratic ideals that everyone deserves an education, and that we should all be willing to provide service to the community in which we live."

The cost for the evening, which traditionally includes a buffet dinner prepared by volunteer chefs, is $25 per person. The committee suggests that becoming a sponsor for $200 - or a patron for $100 - is also "a great way to show your support for this event."

Tickets will be available at the door.

Andover Choral Society presents 'Night at the Opera'

The Andover Choral Society will present "A Night at the Opera" at Calvary Baptist Church on Massachusetts Avenue in North Andover this Saturday, May 18, at 8 p.m.

Among the program's highlights will be portions of Verdi's La Traviata, Mozart's Idomeneo, and Bizet's Carmen. The concert will also feature performances by professional soloists.

The Andover Choral Society is conducted by Allen Combs. Now in his sixth season as music director of ACS, Mr. Combs teaches voice at Phillips Academy and Brooks School as well as privately, in addition to performing as tenor soloist in opera, oratorio and recital. Soloists for A Night at the Opera include soprano Martha Sullivan, mezzosoprano Luz Bermejo, and baritone Dana White-side.

The Andover Choral Society is a not-for-profit organization established more than 66 years ago by J. Everett Collins. The group performs several classical and seasonal concerts each year. Members live in Andover and surrounding communities.

Tickets are $10 and can be purchased at the Andover Book Store, from an ACS member, or at the door the evening of the show. Call 470-8747 for information.

FINANCIAL STRATEGIES

by Ronald R. Hill, CLU, ChFC

THE RIGHT INVESTMENT

Investors must tailor their investment strategies to their own personal circumstances, while taking general market conditions into account. What may be deemed a good investment for retirement may not be at all good for a college savings plan. In any case, the right investment must balance liquidity, safety, and return. Liquidity is a measure of how accessible money is. Those who need their money to be available to cover unexpected costs will be concerned with how easily their invested money can be converted into cash, and may wish to avoid tying up all their investments in long-term investments or those that charge penalties for early withdrawal. Safety is a measure of the risk involved. In general, the more liquid the investment, the safer it is. The return has to do with what an investment can be expected to earn. Safe investments promise a specific, though limited, return. They are best used for short-term investment situations. To use short-term, very safe investments for long-term investment needs is almost never a good idea. Indeed, matching the time period until funds will be needed with the proper investments themselves is much of what we do. Please give us a call today.

Let us show you how to make the most of your hard-earned dollar. At BAYSTATE FINANCIAL SERVICES, 10 Essex Street, Andover, we offer well conceived, time-tested financial advice on a very personalized, individualized basis. The financial industry is laden with companies that are either large and have access to great research, but are more interested in sales volume than in individual clients, or are very small and pay attention to the individual, but lack a depth of conceptual and product knowledge. We bridge the gap between these two types of concern. If you would like to seek council, please call 475-9212. Or call our Boston office, 100 N. Washington Street, at (617) 523-4500.

HINT: The kind of investments you make, the amount you can afford to invest, and the degree of risk that you are willing to take will all determine your return, whether it be for your short- or long-term benefit.

*Consider
These Thoughts*

by Garry A. Burke

BEFORE ONE'S TIME

When people pass from this life before they reach old age, survivors can often be heard to say that the person "died too young." The fact is that, if all but the very oldest amongst us were asked, nearly all would make good cases that they consider the present too soon a moment to die. The notion of dying young, then, revolves around expectations. Is it reasonable to have such expectations? Cicero provided an answer in his Disputations: "Let us get rid of such old wives' tales as the one that tells us it is tragic to die before one's time. What 'time' is that, I would like to know? Nature is the one who has granted us the loan of our lives, without setting any schedule for repayment. What has one to complain of if she calls in the loan when she will?" Although these judgements may seem harsh to those who have suffered losses, Cicero's words may help us guard against taking life for granted.

No matter what your personal philosophy of life and death, death is always hard on the survivors. Grief is experienced by everyone in different ways, but there are some common thoughts and feelings that all who suffer grief share. If you are having a difficult time coping with grief, or if you need help with funeral services, contact BURKE FUNERAL HOME at 475-5200. A non-sectarian home, we are happy to design and plan services to suit your religious beliefs or personal taste. You will find us at 390 North Main Street.

SEEN IN ANDOVER

George Bush spent about 10 hours in Andover

By Perry Colmore

Plenty of people were seen with former President George H.W. Bush Saturday, when he spent most of the day helping the town celebrate its 350th anniversary.

I got a tip that he would be at Barbara Landis Chase's house at Phillips Academy for lunch at 1 p.m., so I walked up to the house of the head of school by 12:45 only to learn he was already inside. No problem. I returned later and caught up with Ms. Landis Chase and her husband, David Chase, and President Bush as they walked to the Deerfield-Andover baseball game. On the way, they stopped at Memorial Place, the new memorial to those PA graduates who lost their lives in wars since World War II.

I took several photos of the president with the Chases, and when he noticed I was trailing the group, he waved. By the time we hit Phelps Field, I decided it was time to introduce myself: "Excuse me," I said, "I'm being rude. My name is" and so on. "How's the newspaper business?" he asked, very friendly, smiling, looking fit in a white PA baseball cap and tan trenchcoat. We chatted a bit about how he was making his way up to Kennebunkport to be with Barbara Bush at their summer home, and about his time at Phillips. He laughed about how it took him "five years to get through a four-year school." I then backed off and returned to taking photos, while people came up and asked if I'd take their photo with the president.

Here are some other people who saw or met the president while he was in Andover Saturday:

He stopped by the Andover Shop at 127 Main St., to see his friend and shop owner Virg Marson, who wasn't working Saturday. Mr. Marson told me the president bought a necktie Saturday, but that back in 1976, the Andover Shop made up an order for Mr. Bush: 29 solid blue neckties with "Nathan Hale" written on them for Mr. Bush to give to members of the CIA as he was leaving the agency. (Remember, Nathan Hall said, "I have but one life to give to my country.")

One of my favorite stories from the day is about Matthew Doherty, age 10, who was at the Anniversary Banquet at Merrimack College Saturday, sitting with his mother, Mary Beth, at a front row table. Matthew is the grandson of James D. Doherty, town moderator and vice chairman of the 350th Committee, and Sheila Doherty, his wife. The president was sitting between Norma Gammon, chairwoman of the 350th, and Sheila Doherty. Mr. Bush sent Matthew a note during dinner, which a Secret Serviceman walked from the stage area where the two head tables were located, to Matthew's table. The note, printed on a small embossed card with "Mr. George Bush" on it, said, "Matthew, you have a very nice grandmother. Good luck. Have a tie clip with the presidential seal." He'd attached a tie clip to the card. Matthew was one happy boy Saturday.

Bill and Carolyn Dalton were at dinner, sitting with his brother, Bucky Dalton, and his wife, Susan Dalton. Also at their table were Paul Cronin and his fiancée, Ellen Raphael. They will be married the first week of June. Nancy Gurry, who runs the Chilton Club in Boston, sat at this table too.

Brad Heim was there with Joanne Fossella, who was dressed all in white. Interesting to note: I think there were more women dressed in white Saturday than black.

Joanne's dad, Enzo Fossella, said, "Everybody's here."

Republican Ruth Westcott also wore a white suit. She said she, like James Doherty, remembers when President Calvin Coolidge came to Andover.

Tom Swift, who was at a table with his wife, Barbara, said Bob Macartney told him weeks ago, "Give me $100," which Dr. Swift did, and that funded two dinner tickets for the Swifts.

Jeanne Becker, office manager for Asoian & Tully on Essex Street, said Dick Asoian was a fundraiser for Mr. Bush, so the firm had a table at the dinner. Jeanne Becker's husband, Bill Becker, head of the English department at Andover High School, was there, and so were Mark and Jane Tully and Nick Forgione and his wife, Lynn O'Toole. Dick Asoian was not able to attend. He was at Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tenn. His daughter was graduating.

Sally and Jack Milne were at dinner. Jack Milne said he was at the dinner because "we're good citizens and we've lived in Andover all our lives." He's a patrolman in Andover. They sat with Robert and Carol Boiluau.

Selectman Barry Finegold was all decked out in tuxedo, as many men were. He was with Jennifer Szoke, his campaign manager. Asked if this is a dating or a work relationship, Mr. Finegold said, "It's a total work relationship. She really wanted to see the former president and she's been working real hard." Mr. Finegold had parked a truck with Finegold for state rep. written all over it outside of the Volpe Center.

John and Cheryl Kelly of Bradford were at dinner. He said he was a guest of the president. An attorney, Mr. Kelly said he's "a personal friend" of President Bush.

Tim Horne, president of Watts Regulator, and his daughter, Tara Horne, and her husband, Phil Grant, of Nantucket, were at dinner. So were state Sen. John O'Brien, D-Andover, and his wife, Kathleen, and Vincent and Sue Morton.

Barbara Landis Chase and her husband, David Chase, sat at a Phillips Academy table that included George and Pat Edmonds.

State Rep. Gary Coon, whose date was Wendy Finlayson, gets the award along with Chris Young for being the most active table-hopper.

Bernice Haggerty was doing her share of table hopping too. And she was taking photos at various tables.

Kingman and Dee Webster were at dinner. I saw Andrew Gully, managing editor for news of the Boston Herald, and his wife, Jacqueline Rutter. Mr. Gully told me he was not working at the dinner, but I noticed a stenographer's notebook tucked inside his breast pocket. "Just in case," he said.

Also at dinner were former judge John Fenton, now dean of Suffolk University Law School, and his wife, Theresa Fenton, lots of Heseltines, George and Charlie to name two, at a front table. Their sister is Norma Gammon.

Boston trial lawyer, Thomas D. Burns and his wife, Marjorie, were at dinner; so was John Sullivan, John and Carolyn Simko, David and Kathy Rodger, JB and Debbie Doherty, Bill and Beverly McLeod and Richard and Betty Lindsay.

Helen Pike, whose late mother-in-law founded Pike School, sat with Tony Dyer, who does public relations for the school.

Tom Urbelis, town counsel, and his wife, Deborah, seemed to enjoy themselves. We also saw Joe Bevilacqua, president of the Greater Lawrence Chamber of Commerce.

Joe Ponti, of 16 Alden Road, and his wife, Louise, were at dinner. She is a member of the Andover Garden Club, which put together the flower centerpieces for the tables. There were about 60 tables and two head tables. The garden club members were at the Volpe Center until 10 the previous night, working on the arrangements. Mr. Ponti said he and his wife have been to all the 350th events.

Gerald Mulligan, president of Andover Bank, and his wife, Caroline, were at dinner. Townsmen reporter Don Staruk shared a table with Gertrude and Leo Marcoux of River Road, parents of Mike Marcoux, AHS guidance counselor. They were with Frank and May Fennesy, of Lawrence. Mr. Fennesy is a retired Lawrence fire department captain. Also at that table were Willard F. and Edith Perkins of Michael Way and their daughter and son-in-law, Janet and Jack Lougee of Harold Parker Road. Mr. Perkins is the father of Willard D. Perkins, of Dana F. Perkins Inc., the developer of the Rose Champy proper-

At 12:45 p.m. Saturday, Andover police cars and cars belonging to the Secret Service were parked outside of the head of school at Phillips Academy, Barbara Landis Chase, where George Bush was having lunch. Dale C. Jenkins Jr. of Boxford was in charge of the security in town while the president was here. Mr. Jenkins' son is a student at Phillips Academy. The press was allowed to follow the president on a walk around the campus, and also to photograph him at the Lanam Club reception before dinner. But they were asked not to photograph him while he took a jog in the PA Cage because he did not have his jogging clothes with him.

Debbie Lane, owner of the Andovers Gift Shop on Main Street, and her husband, Bob Lane enjoyed the dinner.

Tanski, arrived a bit late, taking their seats during the singing of America.

Alan Grindley, of Town TV Broadcasting in Andover, England, was there covering the event for the English media.

Ron and Janice Hill, Bunny and Bill Downs and selectman Larry and Nancy Larsen were there. Of course Len Wilson, president of First Essex Bank, and his wife, Florence, were there. First Essex Bank sponsored the dinner.

And if you wondered who Gloria Lyons is, the woman who sang God Bless America and America, she is a friend of Norma Gammon. Ms. Lyons told me she has been singing since fourth grade. She sang from age 13 to 20 in the Crystal Ballroom, and she had her own radio program, WOTW, out of Nashua, N.H., for a year. Now Ms. Lyons, the mother of eight and grandmother of five, says she only sings for special occasions. "I loved President Bush," she said. "He said what a remarkable voice that I had, that it was gorgeous and I said, 'You are too.'"

1,067 have dinner with George Bush

"If things go badly for me tonight, blame Fred Stott," President Bush said. "I asked Fred Stott what to talk about, and Fred said, 'Talk about 15 minutes.'"

The former president spoke of a fondness for Andover that goes back to his PA days, when he attended the school in the late 1930s and early 1940s.

"Five years to complete a four-year course. That's got to tell you some of how much I love Andover," he said.

He recognized the unbounded energy of Norma Gammon, chairwoman of the 350th Committee and one of those at his table for dinner.

"Just sitting near her makes me tired," he said.

President Bush, the country's 41st president, commended those who prepared a presentation at the dinner in which actors played the parts of five presidents who visited Andover before him. He learned some valuable history from the performance, President Bush said. The performance included the Rev. George Moore as George Washington; Al Koch as Andrew Jackson; William Putnam as Franklin Pierce; Ronald Wackowski as Theodore Roosevelt; and, the Reverend Dr. Calvin Mutti, appropriately, as Calvin Coolidge.

President Bush acknowledged that issues such as growth and managed land use were hot topics in town, and summed up what he perceived as most characteristic of Andover's values.

"In one word it would be community," he said.

People here pride themselves on what they can do for the community, he said. He and his wife, Barbara, who did not accompany him to Andover last weekend, are on various boards and charitable committees in Houston, and people often ask him why they don't just kick back and relax.

It's because, despite the "ugliness" of politics today, he still feels that public service is a noble achievement, President Bush said.

He also spoke of the family values and Thousand Points of Light that he touted during his term in office and failed re-election campaign, and he borrowed a quote from his wife's speech at Wellesley College several years ago.

"What happens in your house is more important than what happens in the White House," Ms. Bush had said.

"Andover's story is a work in progress," President Bush said. "And each of you here tonight is helping to write the next chapter - what Andover will be tomorrow, what it will offer to future generations."

Long day

President Bush spent the afternoon and evening in Andover Saturday, visiting Phillips Academy and greeting well wishers at the Lanam Club prior to the banquet dinner.

noon, then attended a PA baseball game against Deerfield Academy.

The president, Ms. Landis Chase and her husband, David Chase, spent about half an hour at the baseball game. They then decided to walk over to watch some of a lacrosse game. Ms. Landis Chase, dressed in slacks and running shoes, began to take off a sleeveless black-watch-plaid vest she'd worn over her heavy shirt during the chilly afternoon, and she handed it to Mr. Bush.

"You can continue to wear it," the president said to the head of school.

"I'd rather be fashionable than warm," she smiled at him.

President Bush attended a reception for PA students' grandparents and PA faculty at the Addison Gallery of American Art, and a cocktail reception at the Lanam Club on North Main Street at 6 p.m. He worked his way over to the dinner banquet by 7 p.m.

Cheers to the 350th banquet committee

Former President George H.W. Bush said during his speech at the 350th Anniversary Banquet Saturday night that he didn't know who wrote the scripts for the people who played the parts of presidents who had at one time been in Andover. But he was impressed.

We, too, were impressed, and we know who wrote them: Andover historian Julia Haines Mofford. Teachers of history could use the portraits of presidents Washington, Jackson, Pierce, Roosevelt and Coolidge in their lessons because Ms. Mofford's scripts were compelling speeches.

In fact, we congratulate Robert Phinney, banquet chairman, and the members of his committee for an evening we're going to remember for a long time. Maureen Lanigan was assistant chairwoman of the banquet committee and Debby DuBay and Lorraine Peck were coordinators. Members of the committee, whom we also congratulate for a classy evening, are Helen Anderson, Ann Bride, Linda Carpenter, Patricia Clayton, Susan Daily, Claire Doyle, Maureen Finneran, Bernice Haggerty, Ann Lacourse, Robert Lanigan, Nancy Larsen, Constance Lemaitre, Polly Malloy, Jerri Margerson, Mary Morgan, Elaine Page, Maureen Page, Lorraine Peck, Peter Price, Suzanne Price and Teresa Russo.

Thank you very much.

A belated happy Mother's Day

By Perry Colmore

This is a sort of late Mother's Day column. If you're spiritual, I think you'll be fascinated, maybe even inspired. If you're not, you may be turned off. But heck, sometimes we learn the most from what turns us off.

It happened last February, when I was going through the beginning stages of fighting cancer: hearing the news, making a decision about treatment, going through surgery, recovery, worry, all of it and more.

I am a spiritual person, thank God, because my faith is a large part of what has sustained me through cancer. And if you don't believe that, just look at studies, or read a book by Cambridge author Peggy Huddleston, Prepare for Surgery, Heal Faster: faith is part of what helps people survive major illnesses.

During that time I was somewhat like an athlete training for a major event. I was eating well, exercising when possible, reading about survivors, practicing meditation, and participating in a support group of breast cancer survivors. I was also talking with my priest.

I was doing two types of meditation: guided meditation with healing gurus like Bernie Siegel, in which he gently takes you on a trip to healing and positive feel-good places, and I was doing some of my own meditation trips to soothing music.

Most nights when I'd go to bed I would put on a tape of ocean music and settle into a meditation that I'd start to make up. The ocean is a peaceful place for me so the music was perfect. I would imagine myself walking with Jesus on the beach, the waves gently lapping at our feet. And then the meditation would take off, sort of the way a short story or book does for a writer who says she doesn't really know what will happen in her book, the characters begin to take over the plot and the author is anxious to learn what will happen.

In my meditation my husband would join Jesus and me on the beach. Then I'd see more people joining us and they would be members of my support team: my children, my surgeon, my oncologist, my priest. Then Golden Retriever puppies would begin to follow this healing wedge of people walking the beach. Golden retrievers have always been reminders of sunshine and life for me.

It was a pleasant experience, this walking on the beach. I could feel the sun and healing coming into my life. No one said anything, we all just smiled. Sometimes I was a very small child, holding Jesus' hand; other times I was my adult self, still holding hands with Jesus and with my husband.

I told my priest, Jim Diamond of Christ Church, about this meditation and he made an excellent suggestion. "You may want to bring Jesus' mother, Mary, into your meditations," he suggested. "It may be good to add the feminine element to your meditations."

So the next time I slipped into my safe place of walking the beach with my support team, I guided the meditation a little further. The same wedge of healers and I walked the beach but up ahead I saw Mary. At this point my meditation took off by itself. I was no longer the captain of

Thoughts on the 350th parade date

[Editor's note: Rabbi Robert Goldstein and the Board of Selectmen recently talked about the conflict in the Sept. 15 350th parade date. What follows are letters by the rabbi and the selectmen about the situation.]

The Rabbi speaks

By Rabbi Robert S. Goldstein

As many in our community are aware, there is a conflict between Andover's 350th anniversary parade and the second day of Rosh Hashana, one of the more important holidays on the Jewish calendar.

In order to attract the best possible bands for this gala celebration, the hard-working 350th Committee had to make commitments to many of the marching bands one to two years in advance. When the conflict became apparent, a very honest attempt was made to find some solution that would be acceptable and inclusive.

To say that those planning the event are insensitive to the concerns of the Jewish community would not be fair. It would be fair to say that as citizens we all need to become more aware of the customs and holidays of our very diverse community.

I am sad that many people will not be able to participate in the parade, and yet I cannot help but be inspired by the way community leaders and clergy; women and men of all faiths, came together in a series of meetings over the last few days, to deliberate with open minds and willing hearts.

Lines of communication opened where none had existed before. And in a tangible way, it was agreed that a master calendar will be established in Perry Colmore's office, (the editor of this paper), on which every significant religious and secular celebration will be noted. In addition, the selectmen have agreed to reaffirm to our town boards, including our School Committee, the importance of acting with sensitivity and understanding when planning town-wide or school-wide events. These are very concrete and laudable achievements, which please me very much.

The Andover of 1996 is a very different place than the Andover of 50, or a 100 or 350 years ago. I doubt this discussion would have taken place some years ago. The fact they we have had this debate is healthy, and a very positive reflection of how far we have come, and also...how far we have yet to go.

While I am disappointed, I am heartened, for in our diversity we have found strength, and in our differences we have found wisdom.

The selectmen speak

By the Board of Selectmen
To the Editor:

The Board of Selectmen would like to take this opportunity to address you and the community regarding the date of the 350th Anniversary Parade.

The purpose of the parade is to celebrate the past, present and future of the community for the entire community. It was planned to be the one event of our 350th year in which every citizen could participate as marchers or as spectators. Hence, the parade was conceived as a community-wide celebration in the fullest sense of the word.

To that end, the second Sunday after Labor Day (Sept. 15) was selected in the summer of 1993 shortly after the 350th Anniversary Committee was formed. This date was chosen early due to the logistics of scheduling college and university marching bands, military groups and special displays. These organizations book events several years in advance.

The 350th Anniversary Committee had to schedule the parade date as well as many other major event dates at least a year in advance due to the complexity of putting on a series of events such as the ones we have already witnessed.

There has been concern over the selection of the date of the parade. This date of Sept. 15 is indeed the second day of Rosh Hashana, the Jewish New Year. When this conflict came to the attention of the Board of Selectmen, a series of meetings, both formal and informal, were held to discuss what could be done. Representatives of the selectmen, 350th Anniversary Committee and the clergy met twice to see what, in fact, could be done to address the date conflict. After many telephone calls and thoughtful consideration, they concluded that planning was so far advanced with many contracts signed that any change in date at this time would radically change the purpose and the makeup of the parade.

We feel that the selection of this date was an unfortunate oversight. To the citizens of our community we apologize. We, as community leaders, know how sensitive this issue has been and hope all citizens of Andover can come together to make this parade a successful event.

Resident responds to After-School series

Editor, Townsmen:

I found your recent article on children in Andover very thought-provoking, along some of the following lines of thought:

Let students create clubs

It may be useful to have the school department take a look at how colleges let students set up their own clubs and adapt the model as appropriate for this age bracket. If I remember some college tours correctly, it often only takes three kids to start a club and the school gives them seed money to get started with flyers and promotional materials. In terms of funding this, what we may find is that there may be parents or residents of Andover who would be willing to fund $50 or $100 for a club to get started. I would support the concept that the more this is directed and driven by the students, the more effective it would be.

Do all parents care?

I found it particularly thought-provoking to have the comments from the students that parents in Andover don't care. At first I thought this sounded somewhat along the lines of "if you love me, you would let me have a charge account at the Gap" or "give me a car," etc., etc.

But after thinking about it, I thought that perhaps the perception or the reality of many children may actually be that the parents don't care. I wouldn't expect the majority of kids in Andover to have the opinion that their parents don't care about them, but I wouldn't be surprised if 10-20 percent of the students said this. Perhaps this would be a useful survey for the Townsmen to do.

Many or most of us now are two-income families and we work many long hours. This could certainly have an impact. The other thing that struck me was that nobody ever teaches us how to be caring parents. Somehow we expect that to come with our genetic inheritance. We never study this in school and rarely talk about it with other parents.

It may be that, for some kids that are going astray, there could be some sort of informational support network for the parents of those kids to help the parents cope with a difficult situation and maybe give them some hope and guidance in the process.

The legal liability aspects of a skateboarding facility

The town of Andover should be cautious in building a skateboarding facility, if only because of the legal liability aspects. It should be done, but cautiously - with some third party coordinating the effort so the town is not legally involved.

I would also suggest that the kids be expected to contribute with the construction, funding and maintenance of this - as much as is feasible, given their ages - as I have found that making such a contribution leads to more self-respect and pride in the project.

Responsibility for boredom

For those kids who say that they are bored, I would suggest that they take on the responsibility for their lives and get on with it. We have many responsibilities as citizens and residents of Andover for each other, but one responsibility that I do not have is to ensure that a child is not bored. They have the responsibility for their life and they should, at some point in time, come to realize that.

Punks?

In closing, let me say that I refute the idea that many kids in Andover are punks. I would say that there are a few, but they are probably a very small percentage - and probably close to the percentage of adults that might be classified this way. Most kids are good kids and if you can find a direction that they want to go in - and help them go in that direction - I think we will all be rewarded by the contributions that they can make.

Healing with my mother

this trip. Someone, something had taken over. Mary was large. The closest I can come to describing what she looked like is sort of bizarre: she was a huge, almost-statue Mary sitting on a huge chair, robes flowing over the sides. Her size and pose were like Abraham Lincoln in the Lincoln Memorial in Washington.

When we got to her, I climbed up into her lap - a surprisingly easy task - where she held me and comforted me. I was then aware that someone was joining me in Mary's lap, almost pushing me out of the way.

It was my mother.

Now I want you to know I am sane now and I was then. And this is all true. I always loved my mother, but I was often mad at her for the imperfect relationship we had. I had often thought hers was a wasted life, although she taught me much and I have much to be grateful about regarding her.

What I realized in that meditation at that moment when my mother also began to be comforted by Mary was that she, too, needed support and love; she, too, had not been completely filled up with love as a child; she was a person with needs too. And I realized I'd forgiven my mother for being human.

I awoke from the meditation crying from deep inside my stomach, a healing and very satisfying cry. I will never forget the experience and I share it today so that you, too, might benefit from my meditation.

Daddy saved the day

Editor, Townsmen:

Last week Jack, Annie, our friend Anabel and I set out for a nature walk in the sanctuary. When we went in, there were beautiful birds around and then to break the serene atmosphere, we saw an enormous athletic Doberman off his leash. I felt sick. He started biting our puppy, Mickey, and wouldn't let go. I thought my dog Mickey would be eaten up but Daddy saved the day.

Dog fight was frightening

Editor, Townsmen:

The other day my friend's dog got bit by a Doberman. It was in the sanctuary at Phillips Academy. The Doberman was not on a leash. It frightened us so much. We cried so much.

So listen to doctor.

So thank you for listening to me and never get in their (the dogs') way (if they are fighting) and drop the leash.

You are very kind to be reading my article.

Some 350th help came free

Editor, Townsmen:

While the headlines follow the major events of the 350th Anniversary, I would like to recognize the quiet contributions of literally hundreds of fellow citizens and friends who have contributed great quantities of time, talent and materials.

A note on my desk this morning makes the point. As plans for "Let music swell the breeze" grew, it became clear the large number of singers might overload the track in the Phillips Academy cage. Engineers ordered special structural support, so we shopped for a contractor and Daigle Engineer of Methuen did the job.

Today that note on my desk contained their invoice on which was written "After reviewing our bill we have decided to donate our services to the town of Andover."

Thanks Daigle, and thanks too for the hundreds of other quiet contributors. You give great meaning to the word "community."

Fire and police warn to beware phone solicitors

Methuen Police Department, said the group works out of a rented office in the old Marland Mills building at 51 Osgood St. in Methuen.

"We've visited them on several occasions to speak with them in reference to their practices," Detective Himmer said. "The media is the best weapon against these people right now."

Firefighter Landry said the collectors work out of a "boiler room" office in Methuen, but are based in Las Vegas, Nev., and California. According to firefighters and police, the group also uses the names USC Marketing Co., United States Charitable Marketing Co. and U.S. Marketing Inc., and has claimed to be collecting for the Firefighters Association of America or the Disabled Peace Officers Association.

Lt. Gallagher said the Disabled Peace Officers Association is a legitimate group that raises and disperses funds in California, but has only once dispersed funds outside California, and that was for an officer in Indiana.

"It doesn't help anyone in Massachusetts or New England," Lt. Gallagher said.

He said the fund-raiser gets 85 percent of the profits, and only 15 percent goes to whatever organization they may be collecting for. And the donation is technically for advertising in a year book, so it's not tax deductible. The person who collects the check will typically give a sticker to the person donating. The sticker has an 800 number on it, but the number just goes back to the marketing company in Las Vegas, he someone else. The second man said, "Yeah. You're going to have to (talk to) the director all right. Bye," and hung up.

When called back and asked the director's name, he said, "You're the reporter. Why don't you find out," and he hung up again.

asked if the reporter could call him back at 3:30. The reporter agreed to do so, but at 3:30, there was no answer at the office.

"They are calling people in the Merrimack Valley and we know for a fact they told Sgt. Jim Hashem's mother they were from the Andover Firefighter's Association," Firefighter Landry said.

'We just don't want to see people in town getting ripped off.'

Firefighter Jim Landry

In one case, an Andover businessman who gave money for the Disabled Peace Officers Association told police he was told that if he put the sticker on his car he would not get a ticket if pulled over by police.

The Townsmen Tuesday called the Methuen office and asked for Bob Mocera, who Firefighter Landry said was one of those in charge, and was hung up on. A man who answered the phone with a simple "hello," said Mr. Mocera wasn't there and took a message. Then, when asked if he could help, the man handed the phone to

A couple of hours later, a Billy Davis called the Townsmen and identified himself as being on of those in charge at the Methuen office, and briefly responded to the concerns of the Andover Fire Department.

"It's a complete falsehood. I never said we were collecting for them," Mr. Davis said. He said he had all his solicitors' calls on tape and could prove they never said they were collecting for the Andover Firefighters' Association. He also made a vague allegation about the tax status or reporting status of the Andover fire and police associations, but then excused himself quickly and

"We do one fund-raiser a year and it starts next month in conjunction with the Fireman's Ball we have in October," Firefighter Landry said. "These people have nothing to do with us, nothing to do with any firefighters in the Merrimack Valley."

Sgt. Gallagher said his department obtained names of those who have donated to the company and contacted some of them. One was Courtney's Collections, on Main Street, whose owner Lee Zolner, was irate when he found out the group was not affiliated with any local police or fire departments, Lt. Gallagher said. Deputy Murnane said the Andover Hockey Shop was called Tuesday morning and that the caller was "arrogant and obnoxious" and "very pushy."

"We just don't want to see people in town getting ripped off," Firefighter Landry said.

the building before they finish the new sections and then run into problems, there may not be enough rooms available when school opens next fall.

"We're trying," said Mr. Parsons, who referred questions about possible actions the town may take to Tom Urbelis, town counsel. "Everybody's working on it diligently."

Mr. Urbelis preferred not to comment on what he is doing with regard to the building project, but he said Monday he has not met with Stone-Congress' lawyers.

"I know the architects and the contractor over the last couple of weeks talked about scheduling considerations. I don't know the outcome, but I know they're talking," said Mr. Urbelis.

Mr. Urbelis said Andover disagrees with Stone-Congress regarding certain completion dates.

"That's part of it," conceded Mr. Urbelis. "There's (also) disagreements with regard to what they claim in their lawsuit."

Stone-Congress is suing the architects and the town for $1.7 million, saying the High School project couldn't be built with the architectural drawings it originally received. The architects and the town refute this claim, although the town has filed a suit against the architects to protect itself.

Selectmen to vote Monday on Jenkins Road

By Don Staruk

Selectmen will vote this Monday night, May 20, on a proposal by a developer to install a water line in Jenkins Road to enable construction of 21 new homes in the Deering Estates subdivision.

Board members, who also serve as the town's water commissioners, will host a discussion on the proposal prior to taking a vote. The action will take place during their regular meeting, but the meeting will be held in Memorial Auditorium at Doherty Middle School to accommodate an expected large number of concerned residents and builders. Notices about the discussion and vote were mailed to abutters and other residents Tuesday by the town.

Residents filled the third floor conference room Tuesday night, May 14, during the Planning Board's three hearings on the subdivision. The hearings were held for the subdivision's definitive plan, a special permit to cluster and a special permit to remove, regrade or bring in fill.

Planners to host workshop on town Master Plan

The Planning Board will host a workshop on the town's Master Plan this Tuesday night, May 21, at 7 p.m. in the first floor conference room at town offices.

The public is encouraged to attend.

The plan calls for adding 21 new houses to a 33.3 acre parcel that already contains two existing homes.

But for it to work, town water would have to be run down Salem Street from Weathersfield Drive and out Jenkins Road to the subdivision, at 140-150 Jenkins Road, a distance of about a mile and a half.

The proposal has divided neighbors between those who want to retain the open space and those who want to be able to develop their land or want town water. Pat D'Ambra, of 109 Jenkins Road, said she does not oppose development, if it can be done under existing conditions.

"The developer bringing in the water line changes the character, changes the rules," Ms. D'Ambra said Wednesday.

Planners said the water line issue is a political decision for selectmen to make.

The Planning Board continued the three public hearings on the Deering Estates proposal to its next meeting Tuesday, May 28, at 7:30 p.m. in town offices.

Other business

In other business Tuesday evening, planners:

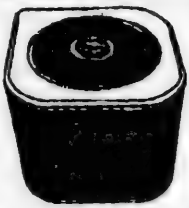

- Tabled discussion on the preliminary plan for Pine Forest Park, a 14-lot subdivision on 38 acres off Route 28 at Route 125, at the request of the owner;

- Postponed a vote on a preliminary plan Steeple Court, a six-lot subdivision off Dascomb Road;

- Disapproved a preliminary plan for Harwich Estates, an eight-lot subdivision proposed off Vine Street.

Putting at 4, she's now the state champ

By Neil Fater

When he saw Beth McCumber play golf for the first time, Andover High golf Coach Robert Lawson knew he had a secret weapon on his hands. It didn't take long for the secret to get out.

Beth, one of four freshmen and the only girl on the High School team, competed in 14 of the team's 15 matches and went undefeated. Monday, she added to that record, earning the title of best in the state by whipping a windblown field at the state Girls High School Championship.

"She's outstanding. Every facet of her game is excellent. All the way from her attitude to her skills," said Mr. Lawson. "She's got stardom written all over her. She's going to go a long way in the golf field if she wants to. She's the most talented young lady I've seen."

Ironically, Beth said she was worried this fall she wouldn't even make the High School team. She also said she went into the state championship at Newton's Woodland Golf Club just hoping to enjoy the day.

"I totally didn't put any stress on myself at all," said Beth. "I had no idea what the field was going to be like."

But Beth said by the time she made the turn halfway through the day, she knew she had a good shot at winning. Ranked fourth and shooting a 31, Beth was two and three strokes ahead of the top ranked players. She ended up shooting an 81, five strokes ahead of the defending champion.

This must have given others in the state a taste of what Beth's opponents felt this fall.

"Most people wouldn't want to play against her because they knew they were going to be embarrassed," said Mr. Lawson.

Unfortunately for Mr. Lawson, though, he won't be able to witness any further embarrassment first-hand, because Beth will return to her old stomping grounds, Florida, at the end of this school year.

Beth grew up in Florida and said she became interested in golf at a very young age. She learned to putt when she was 4, and was playing in tournaments by the time she was 6.

"I have two older brothers who play for college and they played junior golf," she said. "I'd watch them all the time and go out there with my mom. Finally she was like, 'Do you want to play?'"

Beth McCumber of Andover High is the Massachusetts Girls High School Champ.

Later, Beth started a girls golf team for grades 7-12 at her private school, St. John's Country Day School. She said she's looking forward to returning to her team and the area because she misses it there.

"I do. I really do. It's not just the weather, all my family's down there," she said. "I've lived there all my life. It will be nice to go back."

"I'm losing her," acknowledged her coach, Mr. Lawson. "She's heading back to Florida - which is our loss and everybody else's gain."

Chances are, though, opponents won't feel too badly for Mr. Lawson. Despite her talent, as a freshman Beth was listed as Andover's eighth player.

"She played down at the bottom of the line-up, but it didn't matter because we had such a powerhouse of a team," said Mr. Lawson.

The girls' lacrosse team knocked off previously undefeated Governor Dummer Academy. Coming back from a 2-1 deficit at halftime, Mary Barenfeld, Erin Dougherty and Jeanne Ficociello each netted two goals for the 6-1 win. Erika Pahl recorded the win in net with 11 saves.

Despite having their game cut short by 10 minutes in the second half due to weather, the girls' came away with a 7-4 victory over Thayer. Katherine Barrows had four goals while Heather Gotha, Lael Byrnes and Jeanne Ficociello netted a goal each. Erika Pahl had five saves in goal.

A hole-in-one!

George Ferry of Andover, playing at Falcon's Fire Golf Club in Kissimmee, Fla., Saturday, March 23, scored a hole-in-one on the 150-yard, par-3 third hole, the first of his career. Mr. Ferry used a 5 iron due to the windy conditions. The third hole at Falcon's Fire is nicknamed "Short One." His tee shot landed on the left front lower level of the two-tiered green. The ball hit the green and broke right, rolled to the second tier and straight in the cup, which was set in the back right corner of the upper level of the green, protected by a large bunker, he said. The entire right side of the fairway was bordered by water. Mr. Ferry was on a golf vacation with several golfing friends. The trip was organized by Joseph F. Zizzo of Andover. Witnessing the hole in one by the "29" handicapper from Indian Ridge Country Club were Joseph F. Golini of East Boston and Lawrence G. Uchin and James F. Reagan, both of Andover.

AHS track teams distant second in home Invitational Meet

Lady Warriors win 29th straight MVC dual meet

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High track teams finished a distant second to Reading in last weekend's 37th annual Andover Boosters Invitational Meet at the Eugene V. Lovely oval.

The Rockets were runaway winners with 354 points, the combined total scored by the men's and women's teams, while Andover chalked up 250 points and third-place Tewksbury 199.

The breakdown by divisions showed the AHS men with 141 points and the women with 109, compared to 184 for the Reading men and 170 for the women.

Individual event winners for AHS were Randi Spiegel, Susan Ashlock, Allyson Ahern, Peter Ellis, Erik DeMarco, Matt Herling and Adam Westaway.

In recent dual meet action, the Andover High women remained undefeated and tied with Tewksbury for first place in the Merrimack Valley Conference with a 79-52 victory over Lowell at the Eugene V. Lovely oval.

The AHS men made it a clean sweep with a solid 90-55 triumph over the visiting Red Raiders.

The Lady Warriors, winners of 29 straight MVC dual meets, improved to 6-0 in the league and 7-0 including the non-league win over Phillips Academy.

The Andover men, destined to once again finish second to undefeated Central Catholic in the Large School Division, are now 3-1 in the division and 7-1 overall with the only loss a 73-67 squeaker to Central.

the season.

The men were expected to win easily, while the women may have received a challenge from the Lady Lions who entered with a 6-1 record (loss to Tewksbury).

The annual MVC Championship Meet is scheduled for this Saturday at Cawley Stadium in Lowell (10 a.m.).

The dual meet campaign concludes next Tuesday with a pair of showdowns against powerful Tewksbury (3:30 p.m.), and the State Class B Meet will be run on Saturday, May 25 at Reading High (10 a.m.).

The annual Andover Freshman Invitational, which excludes any ninth grader who has scored five or more points in a varsity meet, will be run tomorrow at the Lovely oval.

Andover will also host the MVC Developmental Meet, primarily for athletes who rarely score in varsity meets, on Friday, May 24.

Boosters Invitational

Rounding out the team scores in the seven-school field were fourth place Haverhill (117), Methuen (89), Winthrop (47) and Melrose (29).

Points were awarded for the top six finishers in each event.

Peter Ellis was the leading performer for the Andover men with a first place in the pole vault (13'0") and a second in the 110-meter high hurdles (15.7).

Erik DeMarco won the 300-meter intermediate hurdles in a personal-best 39.6. Matt Herling captured the two-mile in a personal-best 10:06.6, and Adam Westaway placed first in the triple jump (43'8").

After Ellis, runners-up were Josh Hatch (100 meters, personal-best 11.2), Chris Kearn (javelin, personal-best 170'2"), long jumper Tim Smith (21'2 1/4"), pole vaulter Matt MacKenzie (personal-best 11'6"), and the 4x100 meter sprint relay team of Adam Espinola, Hatch, Matt Aufiero and DeMarco (44.8).

Placing third were Donnie Pattullo (800 meters, personal-best 2:02.4), high jumper Dave Hajjar (5'8") and pole vaulter Phil DiBlasi (personal-best 10'6").

Fourth places were earned by 300-meter hurdler Chris Richter (personal-best 43.6), Kevin Costello (400 meters, personal-best 52.2), miler Charlie Russo (4:44.9), shot putter Andy Lynch (45'11"), Matt Muench (discus, 129'8 1/2") and the 4x800 meter relay quartet of Todd Collins, Tim Kearns, Leo Blais and Mike Couture (8:52.7).

Placing fifth for Andover were junior Greg LaFlamme (800 meters, 2:17.9), shot putter Jason Dalton (42'3"), Rudy Morando (javelin, 158'6") and the 4x400 meter relay

Like a tornado, Golden Warriors blow by all opponents

By Rick Harrison

Destroying everything in its path like the ominous and high-powered funnel clouds in the movie Twister, the rampaging Andover High varsity baseball team stormed into first place in the Large School Division of the Merrimack Valley Conference earlier this week.

AHS extended its win streak to eight straight games with victories over Central Catholic (7-0), Chelmsford (7-3), Methuen twice (5-2 and 4-1) and Lawrence (11-0).

Coach Ken Maglio's Golden Warriors improved to 8-1 in league play and 10-2 overall, with Monday's 10th victory also qualifying the locals for the Eastern Mass. Division 1 North Tournament for the 12th straight year.

The Golden Warriors, who won five MVC Large titles in succession from 1989-'93 before Lowell captured the last two, earned back-to-back State Division 1 championships in 1991 and 1992.

Schedule

The locals played at Lowell (also 10-2) yesterday and host Haverhill tomorrow afternoon at Wilmington High (3:30 p.m.).

The MVC campaign concludes next week with games at Small School leader Tewksbury (Monday) and against Central Catholic on Wednesday at Merrimack College (both 3:30 p.m.).

The Golden Warriors open play in the annual Lawrence Invitational Tournament next Friday when they face Methuen for the third time this spring at Mark Devlin Field (4 p.m.).

A makeup date for the April 11 non-league game at Revere is still trying to be arranged.

Stat Leaders

After 11 games Brian Tisbert led the Golden Warriors in hitting with a .567 average (17-for-30).

He was followed by Mark Langone at .484 on 15-for-31, Ken Oppenheim .441 on 15-for-34, Steve Vickers .429 on 15-for-35 and Mark O'Sullivan .412 on 14-for-34.

The team batting average was hovering close to .400.

Langone also had six doubles, one triple, one home run and a team-high 12 RBI.

Tisbert boasted six doubles and nine RBI, O'Sullivan five doubles, one homer and 10 RBI, Vickers one triple and 11 RBI and Oppenheim eight RBI.

Joe Maglio has the team's third home run and Jason Caverly the only other triple.

Langone has been nearly untouchable on the mound with a perfect 6-0 record and miniscule 0.42 ERA. In 33 innings he had struck out 30, walked 13 and yielded only two earned runs (both in the seventh inning of 11-2 win over Billerica).

Injury report

Another Oppenheim went down when versatile senior infielder/outfielder Ken injured his wrist sliding into second base early in Monday's 4-1 victory over Methuen.

The extent of the injury wasn't known at presstime.

Ken's younger brother Rob was lost for the season when he suffered a lower back injury while running to second base during a game three weeks ago.

Andover 7

Central Catholic 0

Mark Langone improved to 5-0 as Andover officially took over the MVC Large School lead with this shutout win over co-leader Central at the South Common field in Lawrence.

Langone was immense once again, the senior righthander (9-1 last two years) yielding only three hits while whiffing four and walking four. It was his second complete game of the season.

The Golden Warriors bunched all their scoring in two innings, a three-run second and four-run sixth.

Walks to junior Steve Vickers and sophomore Ben Gibson set the table for junior Captain Brian Tisbert in the second, and he responded with a two-out, two-run double to left field. Sophomore Jason Caverly then rescued Tisbert with a sharp single to right.

Vickers again started the rally in the sixth with a single, sophomore Joe Maglio followed with a single to right and junior Rob Busby singled. After a pickoff temporarily stalled things, Tisbert walked to load the bases and senior Ken Oppenheim ripped a two-run single to left.

The final two runs scampered across when Caverly's grounder was misplayed.

Central mounted a pair of threats in the fourth and seventh, but Langone met both challenges to preserve the shutout.

In the fourth a two-out walk and double put runners in scoring position, but Langone retired the next batter on a pop-up.

In the seventh a single and walk had two runners aboard with no one out, but Langone bore down to fan the next two hitters and ended the game on a popout.

Oppenheim led the 10-hit attack with a perfect 3-for-3 day, boosting his average to .450 at the time.

Leadoff batter Tisbert, hitting a torrid .722 after the game, was 2-for-3 with two runs scored.

Caverly, Langone, Vickers, Maglio and Busby contributed one hit each.

Sophomore second baseman Scott Petersen was a defensive standout with three assists and two putouts.

Andover 7 Chelmsford 3

Joe Maglio's sixth-inning three-run homer was the key stroke as the Golden Warriors avenged their only MVC loss to that point, a wild 14-10 setback to the Lions on April 24 at Wilmington High.

This one started out the same way, with host Chelmsford grabbing a 3-0 first-inning lead at Ayotte Field.

But the rest of the game was all Golden Warriors, as lefthander Jason Caverly (2-0) settled down on his way to the route-going pitching win.

Caverly spaced eight hits over seven innings, striking out four and walking four to best the Lions' Jarret Fay, who yielded 12 hits and fanned seven.

The locals began chipping away at the three-run deficit in the top of the second, when junior Mark O'Sullivan ripped a double to center field and scored on Ben Gibson's single to right.

Second places were garnered by long jumper Missy Famiglietti, whose prodigious 17'7 1/2" leap was a half-inch behind the winner, high jumper Stephanie Brown who cleared 5'2" to equal her personal best, and the 4x100 meter sprint relay squad of Spiegel, Famiglietti, Beth Har and Barbara Contos (53.2).

Contos also took third in the triple jump (33'3 3/4"), while other thirds went to 300-meter intermediate hurdler Courtney Barron (personal-best 49.0), miler Kris Munson (personal-best 5:37.1), high jumper Erin Harris (5'0") and the 4x800 meter relay unit of Liz Kelly, Meghan Roth, Catherine Blais and Leslie Ring (10:38.7).

notched by Barbara Contos in the 100-meter hurdles (16.2), Sarah Muller in the 300-meter hurdles (personal-best 50.3), sprinter Leah Sciabarrasi (200 meters, 28.7) and Abby Clarke (800 meters, 2:36.2).

Placing fifth were Nolia Hill (200 meters, 29.1), Courtney Barron (triple jump, 32'3") and 4x400 meter relayers Shannon Callahan-Higgins, Kate Sullivan, Charlotte Muller and Ashlock (4:28.5).

Finishing sixth were 100-meter hurdler Jess Puccia (time unknown), shot putter Michelle Mills (27'6") and Kate Jurdi (discus, 88'6").

The women's pole vault was contested as an unofficial (non-scoring) event, with AHS sweeping the top three places behind winner Erin Rogacki, who cleared 7'0", Viki Pierce (6'6") and Diana Liberty (6'6").

The Lady Warriors placed in 15 of the 17 events, being shut out only in the 400 meters and javelin throw.

Kate Sullivan ran a personal-best 65.1 in the 400 but did not finish among the top six.

Outstanding Performers in the meet were Haverhill's Andy Alsop (men's division) and Reading's Andrea Comeau (women's division).

A 47-30 advantage in the nine running events contested, and a 32-22 edge in the six field events, carried the Lady Warriors to the victory.

Andover registered 10 first places and once again swept the triple jump.

The 4x400 meter relay was not contested.

Captain Missy Famiglietti and sophomore Barbara Contos sparked the triumph.

Famiglietti recorded a double victory in the long jump (16'11 1/4") and triple jump (34'10 1/2"), while Contos placed first in the 100-meter hurdles (16.6) and third in the triple jump (32'11 1/4").

Famiglietti ran the second leg and Contos anchored the victorious 4x100 meter sprint relay team, which also included senior Randi Spiegel and junior Beth Har (52.7).

Spiegel also placed first (13.2) and Har third (13.5) in the 100 meter dash.

Captain Kate Jurdi contributed a first in the discus (93'5") and second in the javelin (87'3").

Junior Stephanie Brown was second in the high jump (5'0") and third in the shot put (30'4"), while sophomore Sarah Muller was second in the 300-meter intermediate hurdles (52.0) and third in the high jump (5'0"), and senior Allyson Ahern placed second in the triple jump (33'11") and third in the long jump (15'3 3/4").

Langone (6-0) leads AHS pitching staff

Caverly hammered an RBI triple to center in the third, scoring Ken Oppenheim (walk) and trimming the Lions' lead to 3-2.

Andover finally moved ahead with a two-out, three-run rally in the sixth.

O'Sullivan singled, Gibson singled and Maglio launched the first home run of his varsity career over the stone wall in left field. The three-run blast gave Andover a 5-3 lead.

Two insurance runs were added in the seventh when Oppenheim again walked, Caverly beat out a bunt single, Langone beat out another bunt while sacrificing, Steve Vickers lofted a sacrifice fly to plate Oppenheim, and Gibson drilled an RBI single to left.

The defense made things easier for Caverly in the sixth and seventh innings with a pair of doubleplays. The first went shortstop Brian Tisbert (unassisted) to first baseman Vickers, and the second was 4-6-3 from second baseman Scott Petersen to Tisbert to Vickers.

O'Sullivan and Gibson sparked the 12-hit attack with three safeties each, O'Sullivan lacing a pair of doubles.

Caverly added two hits, including the triple, and singles were spiked by Oppenheim, Mark Langone and Rob Busby.

Sizzling leadoff batter Tisbert finally cooled as he went hitless in four trips.

Andover 5 Methuen 2

The Golden Warriors captured the replay of a game rained out five days earlier with Andover trailing, 4-1, in the top of the fourth inning.

Lefty Rob Busby (1-0) went the distance for his first varsity win, carrying a no-hitter into the fifth and a one-hit shutout into the bottom of the seventh.

Busby finished with a three-hitter, five strikeouts and two walks. Only one of the Rangers' runs, both scored in the seventh, was earned.

"Buzzer changes speeds well, has a nice curve, and one of the reasons he pitched is Methuen has a lot of lefty batters," said coach Maglio.

Only one of the Rangers' hits was solid. Another took a bad hop over the third baseman's head, and the third was a soft bloop in the seventh.

The locals broke the scoreless tie with two runs in the fourth. Mark O'Sullivan singled, Steve Vickers singled and stole second, and Joe Maglio laid down a suicide squeeze bunt that turned into an infield single scoring both runners.

In the fifth Brian Tisbert ripped a double to center field, stole third and crossed on a throwing error to boost the lead to 3-0.

O'Sullivan doubled to center in the sixth, took third on a balk and scored on Vickers' single to center.

The final run came in the seventh when Tisbert singled, moved to third on an infield out and passed ball, and raced across on a wild pitch.

Joe Maglio was 3-for-3 and Vickers added three singles to spark the 10-hit AHS attack. Tisbert and O'Sullivan rounded it out with a double, single and two runs scored each.

Andover 11 Lawrence 0

Starting and winning pitcher Mark Langone (6-0), Mark O'Sullivan and Brian Tisbert combined for a three-hit shutout and six whiffs to keep the struggling Lancers winless in the game at Wilmington High.

The shutout was Andover's third of the season, with Langone involved in each of those decisions (Acton-Boxboro, Central Catholic).

After allowing Chelmsford to score 14 runs in the MVC opener, Andover held its next seven league opponents to a combined total of 11 runs (1.6 per game).

Langone worked the first four innings in this one, yielding two hits while fanning five and walking one.

O'Sullivan followed with two frames of one-hit relief, and Tisbert's first mound appearance of the season produced an overpowering 1-2-3 seventh with one strikeout.

Andover, which numbered seven doubles among its 16 hits, bolted to a 6-0 lead in the bottom of the first inning.

Tisbert launched the assault with a double to left, Ken Oppenheim dropped a bunt single and stole second, and Langone drew a one-out walk to load the bases.

O'Sullivan slapped a two-run single to left, Steve Vickers laced an RBI single to right, Ben Gibson's grounder was misplayed for a run, Joe Maglio walked to load the bases, Rob Busby ripped an RBI single and Tisbert hoisted a sacrifice fly to left.

A one-out double to center by Langone started a four-run rally in the fourth. O'Sullivan followed with an RBI double to center, Vickers singled, Jeff Scott lofted a sac-fly to right, and back-to-back run-scoring doubles were hammered to left field by Maglio and junior Jack Glazebrook.

The 11th run crossed in the fifth on a Langone double to right and Scott's RBI single to right.

Sixteen players saw action for the Golden Warriors, and Langone paced the attack with 3-for-3 and three runs scored.

O'Sullivan contributed two hits and three RBI while Tisbert, Oppenheim, Vickers and Glazebrook also had two safeties each.

Jason Caverly may have hit the ball harder than anyone in the game but had nothing to show for it, with every shot aimed directly at a Lawrence fielder.

Captain Josh Hatch won the 200-meter dash (23.6) and joined Alex Dallis, sophomore Matt Aufiero and senior Naldo Ash on the victorious 4x100 meter sprint relay team (45.0).

Also notching first places were junior long jumper Tim Smith (20'11 1/4"), junior Matt Muench (discus, 128'11"), senior Kevin Costello (400 meters, 53.9), junior Donnie Pattullo (800 meters, 2:06.5), miler and Captain Charlie Russo (4:41.1) and junior two-miler Matt Herling (10:18.7).

AHS runners-up also included senior shot putter Andy Lynch (46'3 1/2"), senior Rudy Morando (javelin, 162'9"), Ash (100 meters, 11.6), 300-meter hurdler Chris Richter (43.2) and junior two-miler Todd Collins (10:34).

Junior Craig Hartwell took a pair of third places in the discus (112'6") and javelin (150'4"), while Adam Espinola was third in both the 100 meters (11.7) and 200 meters (24.3).

Other thirds went to Dallis in the long jump (20'6"), senior triple jumper Chris Mann (38'8 1/4"), senior Mike Hough (400 meters, 55.4), Mike Couture (800 meters, 2:11.6) and miler Jeff DeAngelo (4:52.2).

Andover outscored Lowell by a slim 33-30 margin in the seven field events, but held a wide 57-25 edge in the 10 running events.

Both AHS tennis squads remain undefeated, top league standings

By Rick Harrison

Andover High tennis players met with mixed success during last Saturday's opening rounds in the annual single-elimination Eastern Mass. North Sectional Individual Championships held at several different sites.

Five men and No. 1 women's player Heather Young all advanced to the Round-of-16, which was rained out last Sunday and re-scheduled for this weekend.

In regular Merrimack Valley Conference matches, both AHS squads continued to roll along undefeated at the top of the league standings.

Coach Mike Wartman's Andover men improved to 10-0 with three more 5-0 sweeps of Central Catholic, Haverhill and Tewksbury.

Coach Tony Russo's Lady Warriors experienced their toughest match of the season, edging past Haverhill 3-2, and they also routed Tewksbury 5-0 to improve to 9-0 overall.

All 10 victories by the men have come by 5-0 scores, while the women have captured five matches 5-0, three by 4-1 scores and one 3-2.

Schedule

Both Andover squads had a match with MVC rival Methuen postponed by rain last week, and the makeup date has been set for next Tuesday, May 21.

The locals played Billerica yesterday, and tomorrow afternoon the men host Lawrence and the women travel to Lawrence (3:30 p.m.).

The regular season wraps up next week with Chelmsford (Monday), Methuen (Tuesday), Lowell (Wednesday) and Central Catholic (men only) on Friday.

EMass. North Individuals

The Andover men had a very successful first day of competition as all three singles players and second doubles advanced to the Round-of-16.

In singles' play at the Billerica High courts, seeded senior Captain Mike Stein moved ahead the easy way with a bye and a default victory.

Senior Captain Kurt Dahlstrand won a pair of straight-set early-round victories, eliminating Woburn High No. 1 Brian Sullivan 7-6 (7-3), 6-2 and Reading No. 2 Eric Rulison 6-0, 6-2.

Junior Ross Fenton also dispatched two opponents in straight sets, trouncing Reading No. 1 George McCormick 6-0, 6-4 and Lowell No. 2 Sam Bourlaphah, 6-0, 6-2.

In doubles' action at the Burlington High courts, the No. 2 team of junior Dave Sullivan and sophomore Alan Hibino topped the Reading tandem of Burt Hanson and Aaron Ward 6-0, 6-1 in their first match.

Their second match was postponed by rain.

Andover's No. 1 doubles, senior Ravi Tharisayi and sophomore Dave Gutstein, was ousted with a tough three-set loss to Jason Suffredini and Adam Tobias of Burlington. Tharisayi and Gutstein lost the first set, 2-6, won the second, 6-4, and lost the third, 3-6.

Andover women

It was a rough opening day for the Lady Warriors at the Wayland High courts, with only junior No. 1 singles' player Heather Young surviving.

Young, who battled to the EMass. North final last spring before losing to eventual state champ Elisa Banner of Bedford, was top-seeded at her site and drew a first-round bye.

Young then swept past an opponent from Marblehead 6-0, 6-1 in the second round, and an opponent from Lynnfield High 6-1, 6-1 in the third round.

All other AHS women were eliminated.

Sophomore No. 2 singles Lauren Roda lost a first-round 7-5, 6-4 decision to her opponent from Westwood.

Senior Captain Cindy Su was also bounced early with a 6-0, 6-1 setback to her opponent from Manchester High.

Andover's No. 1 doubles' tandem of senior Captains Andrea Marvin and Meghan Pauley were knocked out 6-4, 6-3 in the opening round by their opponents from Masconomet Regional.

Sophomore No. 2 doubles Rebecca Parks and Emily Wilner won their first match, beating a team from Arlington 6-0, 6-4.

They were eliminated in the second round, however, with a 6-0, 6-1 loss to the No. 1 team from Winchester High.

Andover men 5 Central Catholic 0

The Red Raiders, in second place at the time of this match with only one loss, presented a very small hurdle for the Golden Warriors to clear.

Captain Mike Stein cruised past Wayne Slattery 6-2, 6-1 at first singles, Captain Kurt Dahlstrand struggled early and then rolled 6-4, 6-0 over Orlando Mora, and junior Ross Fenton hammered Joel Brain of CCHS 6-1, 6-0 at third singles.

Seniors Andy Ravens and Jay Levine dismantled Tim Belcastro and George Thompson 6-0, 6-2 at No. 1 doubles, and completing the sweep in strong fashion were sophomore Dave Gutstein and junior Dave Sullivan with a 6-1, 6-1 conquest of Frank DeFusco and David Hall at second doubles.

Andover men 5 Haverhill 0

The Golden Warriors shook up the roster but still swept all four matches contested in straight sets.

Senior Marc Formichella stepped in at No. 1 singles and trimmed Matt Anderson in a competitive 6-4, 6-2 match.

Senior Joel Elzweig registered an easy 6-0, 6-0 double bagel of the Hillies' Nick Tzitzon at second singles, and the locals were awarded third singles on a forfeit.

Seniors Mike Wellikoff and Scott Callanan posted a symmetrical 6-2, 6-2 triumph over Zack Eldridge and Ryan Sheehan at No. 1 doubles.

Seniors Jeff Isenberg and Gautam Guruprasad destroyed Adam Bergeron and Andy Pigeon 6-0, 6-0 at second doubles to kept AHS perfect.

Andover men 5 Tewksbury 0

Senior Mike Wellikoff made his first appearance at No. 1 singles and cruised to a 6-4, 6-2 victory over Brian Crovo.

In the only unpredictable match of the day, senior Scott Callanan stepped in at second singles and outlasted Tewksbury's Eric Nutile 6-1, 3-6, 7-5.

Senior Jeff Isenberg completed the singles' sweep with a 6-0, 6-0 annihilation of Jeff King at No. 3.

Senior Gautam Guruprasad and junior Brian Yoon were teamed at first doubles and they disposed of Redmen Artie Ford and Aaron Osterman 6-3, 6-1.

Andover captured the fifth point at second doubles by default.

Lady Warriors softball team suffers some tough setbacks

By Rick Harrison

An impressive 5-3 victory over Merrimack Valley Conference power Haverhill highlighted recent Andover High varsity softball action.

That win, coupled with a tough 7-5 extra-inning loss to Lowell, an even tougher 2-1 setback to Billerica and a 7-1 defeat to Chelmsford left the Lady Warriors at 4-9 overall.

Three of the losses have come by one run and six of the nine by three runs or less.

Coach Ken Pellerin's crew needed to win its last five games to qualify for the Eastern Mass. Division 1 North Tournament.

Schedule

The locals are at the end of another busy week.

They played a makeup of last Friday's rainout at Lawrence on Tuesday, and traveled to Tewksbury for a game yesterday.

Andover hosts Methuen this afternoon (3:30 p.m.), and completes the regular season next week with games at Haverhill Monday and against non-league

North Andover at Merrimack College next Tuesday (both 3:30).

Statistics

Through the first 10 games, Captain Vanessa Blank was the top Andover hitter with a .484 average (15-for-31).

Freshman Courtney Famiglietti was close behind at .457 on 16-for-35, while junior Michelle Crispo was at .323 on 10-for-31 and sophomore Noelle Blank at .310 on 9-for-29.

The team batting average was .286.

Crispo also had a team-high two home runs and nine RBI, Famiglietti three doubles and seven RBI, Vanessa Blank three doubles and Captain Elaine Licata a grand slam and nine RBI.

Vanessa Blank had pitched 47.2 innings, yielding 40 hits and 16 earned runs while striking out 36 and walking 16. Her record was 3-5 and her ERA 2.35.

Andover 5 Haverhill 3

Vanessa Blank, rivaling her one-hit shutout against Tewksbury earlier this spring, held a much tougher Hillies' squad scoreless over the final six innings and finished with a crisp four-hitter, 10 strikeouts and only one walk.

The three Haverhill runs, all in the top of the first inning, were unearned.

"This was a very good win for us because last year Haverhill shut us out twice and the second game was real ugly (15-0 loss)," said coach Pellerin. "We had a rough first inning but played errorless ball the rest of the way."

"Vanessa had her drop pitch working again. She probably didn't throw more than three or four fastballs all day. She kept them off balance and we stayed focused."

Ace hurler Danielle Breton, who authored both those shutouts last spring, was touched up for 10 hits in this one.

The Lady Warriors committed three physical and one mental error in the first inning to fall in the quick 3-0 hole.

A three-run AHS third squared things as Lynne Mazza singled, Michelle Crispo reached on a one-out infield error, Vanessa Blank singled to load the bases, and freshman Courtney Famiglietti cleared them with a three-run double down the left field line.

Andover plated the winning and insurance runs in the bottom of the sixth to snap the 3-3 tie.

Kristi Keller singled, Mazza sacrificed and Noelle Blank singled to put runners at the corners. Crispo ripped a single to center, with Keller scoring the go-ahead run before Noelle Blank was thrown out at the plate. Crispo advanced on the throw home and scored on Vanessa Blank's single up the middle.

Haverhill had a runner on third base with two outs in the seventh, but the game ended when catcher Famiglietti picked her off with a rifle throw to third baseman Elaine Licata.

"Haverhill figured we weren't going to pay any attention to that runner so we went right after her," explained coach Pellerin.

Vanessa Blank led the AHS offense with three hits, including a double, while Famiglietti added a double and single.

Other safeties were lashed by Licata, Crispo, Keller, Mazza and Noelle Blank.

Lowell 7

Andover 5 (9 innings)

After the Lady Warriors tied the game 5-5 with two runs in the bottom of the seventh, Lowell pushed across two in the top of the ninth to pull out the victory.

Sophomore Lynne Mazza started on the mound for AHS, scattering seven hits in 5 1/3 innings. She didn't walk a batter and only one of the five runs she allowed was earned.

Vanessa Blank took the loss in relief, although she also pitched well while yielding only two hits and whiffing three in 3 2/3 innings.

"Both Lynne and Vanessa pitched very well," said coach Pellerin. "The defense killed us, especially in the second when Lowell scored three unearned runs. We made some outstanding plays after that, but the damage had been done."

Andover had better luck against LHS pitcher Michelle Bergeron than it ever has in the past, nicking her for 10 hits, three walks and five runs. She also fanned six in a complete-game effort.

After surrendering three tainted runs in the top of the second, AHS got one back in the home half.

Elaine Licata singled, Kaitlin Dargan walked, and following a double steal Kristi Keller walked to load the bases. Noelle Blank then laced an RBI single to center field, but the

A pair of easy victories in doubles enabled the Lady Warriors to escape unscathed in a rare close MVC match.

Senior Captains Andrea Marvin and Meghan Pauley, a veteran tandem, rolled to a 6-1, 6-2 victory over the Hillies' Caitlin Masys and Joanna Dixon at first doubles.

Sophomores Emily Wilner and Rebecca Parks had no trouble at No. 2 doubles, besting Kristin Comeau and Katie Vallieres 6-0, 6-1.

Sophomore Lauren Roda earned the only singles' point for Andover with a 7-5, 6-2 triumph over Ellyn Torosian at No. 1.

Making it interesting were Haverhill victories at second and third singles, Kate Dixon defeating Lady Warriors' senior Kristy Marsh 6-0, 6-4 at No. 2 and Haverhill's Erika Anderson rallying for a marathon three-set 4-6, 7-6, 6-3 decision over junior Ryoko Matsuura.

Andover women 5 Tewksbury 0

The Lady Warriors dropped only seven games in the 10 sets to overpower Tewksbury 5-0 for the second time this spring.

Lauren Roda played first singles and galloped past Julie Pereira 6-0, 6-0.

Senior Captain Cindy Su subdued Dianna Martel 6-2, 6-0 in second singles, and junior Dara Ekster prevailed 6-1, 6-1 over Tewksbury's Heidi Meharg at third singles.

Kristy Marsh and Catherine Bakulski stopped Nicole Drevet and Emily Henderson 6-0, 6-2 in first doubles.

Ryoko Matsuura and junior Elizabeth Van Damme pulled together at second doubles for an easy 6-0, 6-1 conquest of Sue Lussier and Teja Salkar.

Your Dental HEALTH

by Richard D. Hopgood, D.M.D.

WHEN TEETH CRACK

Dentists often warn their patients to avoid biting down on such hard objects as ice and unpopped popcorn kernels because doing so can lead to cracked teeth. At first, patients may not immediately realize that they have cracked a tooth. This realization usually comes later, when biting down on the affected tooth produces a sudden, piercing pain or there is a new sensitivity to heat and cold. Even though the crack may not be visible to the patient, such symptoms should warrant a visit to the dentist for an examination. After the dentist pinpoints the problem, it usually can be remedied with a crown or onlay to protect the chewing surface and hold the tooth together. In some cases, root canal therapy may be necessary. In any case, treatment is necessary because cracks do not heal on their own.

It's hard to be happy when your mouth hurts. If a painful cracked tooth or neglected teeth and gums prevent you from smiling, take care of the problem with the help of your dentist. We care how you feel and work with you to help you achieve optimal oral health. For complete, gentle dental care for everyone in your family, please call us at 475-2431. Convenient office hours available Mon & Thur 10-8, Tues & Fri 8-6, at 296 Lowell Street, Rt 133, with easy access off Rt 93. Emergencies seen promptly.

P.S. Cracked teeth also develop as a result of engaging in the bad habit of biting down on pencils and pens.

Understanding Chiropractic

by Mark F. DeLorenzo, D.C.

GARDEN VARIETY INJURIES

Now that fitness experts have acknowledged that gardening is a form of low-level exercise, gardeners no longer will have to argue to have their complaints taken seriously as they endure injuries similar to the ones that athletes experience. The fact is that those who do their own gardening and yard work never had to go far to convince chiropractors that their aches, pains, strains, and sprains were real. Any chiropractor knows that the exertion that bodies go through while rototilling, shoveling, pruning, planting, raking, and doing all the other things necessary to prepare a garden places stress on the body that is similar to that endured by athletes and exercisers. Thus, chiropractors are no less likely to treat green thumbs for back pain than they are to treat weight-lifters for the same problem. Chiropractors treat musculoskeletal injuries, regardless of how their patients come by them.

Although most accidents may be unavoidable, much of the physical damage and suffering resulting from accidental injuries may, in many cases, be avoided with chiropractic care. At DeLORENZO CHIROPRACTIC GROUP, we offer the most advanced and comprehensive equipment and procedures to deliver the finest chiropractic care. We're located at 15 Central Street. Please call 475-5042 to schedule an appointment.

P.S. Just as athletes and exercisers warm up before engaging in their exercise of choice, gardeners should ask the chiropractor to suggest strengthening and stretching exercises that will help them avoid injury.

hitter, striking out six and walking only one in Monday's eighth straight victory at Wilmington High.

The Golden Warriors inched ahead 1-0 in the bottom of the third when Brian Tisbert doubled to left field, stole third and scored on Caverly's sacrifice fly to center.

The Rangers tied it with their only run in the top of the fourth, but Andover retaliated with its final three markers on just one hit in the bottom of the inning.

Mark O'Sullivan was hit by a pitch, Steve Vickers singled and both runners advanced on an error.

Ben Gibson hoisted a sac-fly to left field to rescue O'Sullivan with the eventual winning run. With two outs Rob Busby was hit by a pitch and he stole second. Vickers scored on a passed ball, Tisbert walked, and Busby raced across on a wild pitch.

Methuen threatened in the sixth, putting two runners aboard (two singles) with one out before Andover reeled off a Scott Petersen-Tisbert-Vickers 4-6-3 double play to end the inning.

It was the second twin-killing of the game for the trio, who had defused an earlier two-on, one-out situation in the first with a 6-4-3 DP.

Tisbert and Vickers paced the eight-hit attack with two safeties each while Ken Oppenheim, Jack Glazebrook, Caverly and O'Sullivan contributed one hit apiece.

The two double plays boosted Andover's total to 10 for the season, despite the fact Tisbert missed one game and previous second baseman Rob Oppenheim was sidelined early in the season with a back injury.

AHS volleyball team clinches tourney berth

By Rick Harrison

For the sixth time in their eight-year existence, the Andover High men's varsity volleyball team has qualified for the State Tournament.

The berth was officially clinched last Friday when the two-time defending and five-time overall North Alliance champions battled past a tough Lowell High squad 2-1 at the Dunn Gymnasium.

The victory, which came on the heels of a 2-0 loss to powerhouse Methuen, left the Golden Warriors at 10-5 overall and 6-4 in the league.

"We're pleased because I don't think anyone expected us to do this well," said coach George Sullivan.

Andover went 22-2 and reached the state final last spring, but only three veteran players returned from that team.

With the 10 wins so far this season Andover, also a state semifinalist three times, has lifted its eight-year overall record to a flashy 112-36.

Schedule

AHS, which will surrender the North Alliance title this year, began its regular season stretch run yesterday when it hosted Draught.

Sullivan's squad plays at Chelmsford today (4 p.m.), and wraps up pre-tournament activity next week with three home matches on consecutive days against Billerica (Tuesday), non-league Holliston (Wednesday) and Westford Academy (Thursday).

Andover 2 Lowell 1

With alumni Tim Foley, Aaryn Schmuhl, Doug Miller and Andy Shen among those in the crowd, the Golden Warriors won the first game, 15-5, lost the second in overtime, 14-16, and won the deciding game, 15-9.

"We made a tremendous comeback from an 8-2 deficit in the third game," said coach Sullivan, whose team led the second game 14-13 but couldn't close it out for the sweep. "We were in a funk until all of a sudden we made a couple good blocks, a couple nice defensive plays, and brought it back to an 8-8 tie."

Andover outscored the Red Raiders (7-6) by a 7-1 margin the rest of the way to qualify for the tournament.

"If we had played this way against Methuen the previous match we would have beaten them," said Sullivan.

"We won the first game easily, but Lowell regrouped and the second game was back and forth. We had the momentum, and a 14-13 lead, but we blew it by hitting one serve too hard and banging another out of bounds."

Senior middle-hitter Joe Hogarty, whose cannon returns were booming, finished with 15 kills and a 26-for-33 hitting performance.

Captain Pat Hess contributed eight kills and 9-for-12 hitting, senior outside hitter Jon Adams had six kills and senior Zach Smith did an excellent defensive job in the back row.

"Lowell was attacking (setter) Jeoung An effectively, so we almost switched offenses to a 6-2 in the third game," said coach Sullivan. "It's something we have to consider doing for the tournament."

AHS made only 13 hitting errors and six serving errors in the match.

"It was a nice balanced attack with everyone contributing," said Sullivan.

Methuen 2 Andover 0

The Golden Warriors, beaten 2-0 for the second time this season by the Rangers, were never in it as Methuen won 15-4 and 15-8.

"We couldn't do anything right in the first game," said coach Sullivan. "Our guys wanted to beat them in the worst way, but we made too many errors."

"We played well in the second game up to the 7th point and then we froze."

"Methuen has excellent size and some hard hitters. We didn't block well and our passing was off. We also killed ourselves with 13 service errors."

Andover JVs

The AHS junior varsity improved to 11-2 with 2-0 sweeps of Methuen and Lowell.

In the 15-11, 15-3 sweep of Lowell, which avenged one of the two earlier losses, the winners were sparked by Dave Nichols (four kills, five solo blocks), Jack Nolan (three kills, four blocks), Ben Mertes (four blocks), Pete Maguire (passing), Mike Monteiro (hitting, defense), setter David An (passing) and freshman Jim Newell (all-around).

Leading the way in an 18-16, 15-7 triumph over Methuen were Monteiro (defense, setting), Nolan (five kills), Shaun Connors (four kills), An (setting), Newell (nine good serves) and Maguire (back-row defense).

Lady Warrior softball action

Andover tied it 3-3 with two runs in the third. Vanessa Blank and Courtney Famiglietti both singled, and moved into scoring position on an infield out. Blank crossed when Dargan's grounder was mis-played and Mazza ripped an RBI single to center rescuing Famiglietti.

Lowell pushed across two runs in the fifth, setting the stage for a dramatic Andover rally in the seventh.

Famiglietti singled, Dargan slapped a one-out single and stole second, and when Mazza's grounder was booted both runners scored to tie it 5-5.

Mazza then stole second and Keller walked, but the locals couldn't end it as Bergeron got the next two hitters on a strikeout and grounder to shortstop.

Michelle Crispo walked and Vanessa Blank reached on an error to open the Andover eighth, but again Bergeron escaped with a flyout to left, strikeout and groundout to second base.

Lowell scored the winning runs in the ninth on a fielder's choice and a squeeze bunt.

Famiglietti, Mazza and Vanessa Blank led the 10-single attack with two each, while other safeties were laced by Julie Litzenberger, Nicole Blank, Licata and Crispo.

Famiglietti was a defensive standout at catcher.

Chelmsford 7 Andover 1

Four AHS errors led to six unearned Chelmsford runs, as the visiting Lions broke a scoreless tie with three in the fourth before adding four insurance markers in the seventh at the Doherty Middle School field.

Chelmsford also bunted the Lady Warriors to death, with several of their 10 hits off complete-game pitcher Vanessa Blank of the infield variety. Blank whiffed two and permitted only one earned run.

Liz Drake shackled the locals on four hits, a pair of doubles and two singles.

The only Andover run came in the bottom of the fourth inning when Vanessa Blank reached on a fielder's choice, stole second and scored on Courtney Famiglietti's double to tie the gap in left-center.

AHS threatened in the final seventh when Elaine Licata reached on an error, Kaitlin Dargan walked and both runners advanced on a passed ball. But Drake struck out the next batter to end it.

Julie Litzenberger and Famiglietti laced the doubles, while Noelle Blank and Michelle Crispo contributed one single each.

Defensive standouts were first baseman Litzenberger (10 putouts) and Noelle Blank, who made a shoestring catch of a sinking line drive in center field.

Meghan Stanton was the big hitter for Chelmsford with four singles and two RBI.

marked the third one-run defeat of the season and the sixth time the Lady Warriors have been beaten by three runs or less.

The visitors, who lead the MVC with a 12-2 record but have struggled twice against Andover (4-1 earlier), pushed across single runs in the top of the first and third innings.

Winning pitcher Jen McBride (7-2) made them stand up with a six-hitter. She didn't walk a batter.

Kristen Infanger drove in both Indians' runs on a first-inning groundout and third-inning single.

Laurie Chenevert and Kristina Morey spanked two hits each for Billerica.

Senior League play continues

By Rick Harrison

The Mets, White Sox and Red Sox earned a victory each last week as Andover Senior League play continued at the Doherty Middle School field.

Mets 5

White Sox 0

Winning pitcher Sean Lawton tossed six innings of three-hit, shutout ball to spark the Mets to victory.

Jonathan McHugh led the offense with three RBI, while John Feeley added two, and McHugh was a defensive standout at shortstop with three assists, two putouts and the first throw in a 6-4-3 double play.

Adam Silevitch and Mike Tonelli pitched in relief for the winners, Tonelli retiring the last three Sox' batters in the seventh to preserve the shutout.

Mike Burnett contributed two safeties for the Sox, a hard-hit double and infield single, while Mike Meagher sparked the defense with three assists at second base.

White Sox 4

Red Sox 0

Nick Nowell and Steve Arsenault laced two hits each, while Andy Bellistri and Dave Nichols both reached base four times, as White blanked Red in a battle of the Sox.

Mike Giles fired a three-hit shutout, fanning eight and walking only one, to notch the pitching victory.

Bob Partridge was cited for his hustle, and defensive stars were second baseman Arsenault and center fielder Andy Jacobs.

Arsenault raced behind the second base bag to make a running catch in shallow center, and he broke in the opposite direction for another fine grab behind first base. Both catches ended Red Sox threats when the game was still on the line.

Mike Johnson, Nick Lunger and Mike Lewis lashed one hit each for the Red Sox, whose pitching duties were shared by lefthander Rich Sheldon, Greg Scott and Lewis.

The Red Sox' defense also pulled off a 1-6-3 double play.

The winners exploded for seven runs in the top of the seventh, but the rally was wiped off the books when darkness halted the game before the Red Sox could bat in the bottom half of the final inning.

Red Sox 15

Pirates 5

Mike Johnson and Greg Scott spanked three hits each, and Nick Lunger contributed two more, as the Sox erupted for 12 hits and 15 runs.

Winning pitcher Rich Sheldon worked the first five innings and whiffed 12. Reliever Matt James mopped up in the sixth and seventh.

Defensive standouts for the victors were catcher Matt Beechinor and third baseman D.J. Bligh.

The Pirates' Brian DeAngelo walked twice and scored two runs, while Joe Dolan and Brian Froburg had one RBI each.

Froburg was the starting pitcher and catcher Evan Martin worked hard behind the plate for the Bucs.

Selecting A Realtor

Finding the right Realtor to help you in your search is the first important step you should take when you are ready to buy a new home. Some people recommend the "choosing a book by it's cover" approach when selecting a Realtor and recommend that you choose your agent based on the car he or she drives.

While it is true that you may be spending a considerable amount of time in the agent's car, it's much more important to be comfortable with the person than their vehicle.

Knowledge, professionalism and experience are important factors to consider when selecting a Realtor. But you should also look for someone who listens carefully to what you want in a new home, and who knows the market well enough to find the right house for you within a reasonable period of time. If you feel the Realtor is sensitive to your needs and desires, you will feel confident about working with that person.

A Guide to Area Eateries!

French fries shed their fatty image

Without a doubt, Americans love their potatoes — mashed, baked, roasted or fried. Last year the demand for French fries reached a volume of nearly seven billion pounds.

Potatoes have unjustly earned the reputation of being foods to avoid on a diet, when the fattening part is what we add to them — usually some form of fat, either in the preparation process or as a topping.

It's possible to eat potatoes and diet too if you prepare them in the following diet-smart ways:

- Bake and eat with low- or non-fat sour cream.
- Mash potatoes with reduced fat butter or low-fat milk. Add herbs for flavor.
- Use a low-fat butter substitute spray to roast them.

French fry lovers have been frustrated in their efforts to find a low-fat alternative to America's favorite side dish. The deep frying process that gives fries their unique flavor and texture adds fat, in the form of oil, to the potatoes.

One food processing company believes it's possible to enjoy a product that looks like a fry, cooks like a fry, and tastes like a fry—at about half the fat.

The latest innovation to America's fast food staple, Simplot Golden Classic™ French Fries, comes from the J. R. Simplot Company, the agribusiness giant who introduced frozen French fries to the food service industry in the 1940s.

Through the application of a patented oil absorption barrier, these French fries are prepared like leading "fast food" style fries, but with about 45 percent less fat.

The oil absorption barrier is made from pectin, a natural gum that is found in all citrus fruit peel, and is typically used in the canning and preserving of fruits and vegetables.

Application of the Quite willing, according to a recent taste test conducted by Simplot — provided the only trade-off is a better tasting fry. Based on these tests, an overwhelming 80 percent said they would purchase the product again.

Restaurants adding this reduced fat food to their menus found that the volume of French fries ordered increased by as much as 50 percent.

pectin process to raw potatoes results in a reduced-fat French fry that retains its natural potato flavor, texture and appearance without any alterations to raw product or cooking technique.

But how willing are consumers to switch to a lower-fat French fry?

Shortcakes are a dessert favorite

Juicy berries and whipped cream tucked between two tender shortcakes — no single dessert welcomes warm weather in a more tasteful way. And, with the shortening and leavening in the mix, Bisquick makes it easy to prepare a new variation of this traditional American dessert.

Although strawberry shortcake is the always popular favorite, these Raspberry-Almond Shortcakes are just as easy and very special. The shortcakes are topped with crunchy Almond Streusel to complement the fresh raspberries. A familiar dessert with a trendy twist...delicious!

Raspberry-Almond Shortcakes

Almond Streusel (below)
2 1/3 cups Bisquick Original baking mix
1/2 cup milk
3 tablespoons sugar
3 tablespoons margarine or butter, melted
3/4 teaspoon almond extract
Sweetened whipped cream
3 cups fresh raspberries, sweetened

Prepare Almond Streusel. Heat oven to 425°. Stir remaining ingredients except whipped cream and raspberries until soft dough forms. Gently smooth dough into ball on surface dusted with baking mix. Knead gently 8 to 10 times.

Roll dough 1/4 inch thick. Cut with 3-inch round cutter dipped in baking mix. Place on ungreased cookie sheet. Top each round with Almond Streusel.

Bake 9 to 11 minutes or until light golden brown. Do not split shortcakes. Place half of the shortcakes on dessert plates; top with half of the whipped cream and raspberries. Top with remaining shortcakes, raspberries and whipped cream. 5 or 6 servings.

Almond Streusel

1/4 cup Bisquick baking mix
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 tablespoons firm margarine or butter
1/4 cup sliced almonds

Mix baking mix, sugar and margarine until crumbly; stir in almonds. High Altitude Directions (3500 to 6500 feet): Heat oven to 450°. Decrease the 3 tablespoons sugar to 1 tablespoon.

From inn keeper's table to family restaurant, eating out has a long history

The appetizing facts you'll find here are from the experts at the National Restaurant Association, which celebrated its 75th anniversary last year.

When America was settled, the idea of "eating out" was alien. Most people took their meals at the family table. There were exceptions, of course. Inns and taverns answered the need of weary travelers and newly arrived settlers for lodging, food and drink.

As at home, patrons sat down at the family table. If they were in luck, the proprietor was a genial host with a good farm attached to the tavern or inn, and a wife who could cook. In that case, the one-dish meal was most likely a delicious stew of meat and vegetables, served on clean linens and the patrons were invited to eat their fill.

Dinner in a less hospitable establishment could turn out to be the unappetizing mixture of salt pork and turnip tops reported by one horrified traveler. The dining-out experience might include bedclothes that doubled as tablecloths, or a host who glowered at anyone foolish enough to ask for a second helping.

As the country expanded westward, taverns and inns sprang up on major routes and in newly settled towns. Beer, cider and spirits flowed freely and a bawdy atmosphere prevailed. Food, almost an afterthought, was normally served free to paying drinkers.

As cities grew larger and more industrialized, more people had to eat lunch away from home. Lunchrooms became popular, especially in the South and Midwest. Horsedrawn wagons took lunch to factory workers. In some, you could even eat inside. It was one small step from this innovation to the diner, one of the most enduring and beloved kinds of family restaurant.

Gradually, the idea that customers should be able to choose the type of food served, portion size and meal hours began to take hold. Eating places expanded their bill of fare and the custom of giving away food to paying drinkers started to fade. Menus that were formerly scribbled on a chalkboard or called out by a "barker" were duplicated for individual distribution.

A new form of service, "see-and-select" caught on in the early 1900s. The new eating places were dubbed cafeterias.

Nearing the end of the 20th century, restaurants have all the trappings of other businesses — varied products, computerized systems, supplier networks, sophisticated merchandising.

Whether they belong to a chain or are independent establishments, modern family restaurants serve a far more diverse clientele than early eating places. They are committed to pleasing people of all ages, backgrounds and economic means.

In some ways, however, eating places have changed little. A majority are small businesses run by individual proprietors or families who offer hospitality in the same personal way as the innkeepers and tavern owners of the past.

In a few restaurants, the past and present merge. Boston's Durgin-Park succeeded 166 years ago by offering large portions of simple New England food at fair prices. The formula worked well — so well in fact, that the restaurant remains open today.

Family mealtime is more than just a time to eat

Families looking for a way to strengthen ties and increase happiness should dine together more often, a new study reports. According to the Kraft Cheese Family Study, American families who share meals together are happier in many aspects of life than those who don't.

Attitudes toward a number of lifestyle issues including relationships, priorities, personal happiness, quality of life as well as eating habits can be talked about during mealtime. The extensive study findings provide a "snapshot" of American families today and the important issues affecting them. "It's not surprising that the families who share more food experiences together are the happiest," said Robyn Flipse, M.S., R.D. "Mealtime provides families with an excellent opportunity to communicate with each other and update family members on what is happening in each other's lives. It's also a great time to coach family members about nutrition and encourage better eating habits."

The survey identified pizza as the number one food for bringing people together. Pizza was also listed with grilled cheese sandwiches as the top two comfort foods. "Serving meals made with favorite ingredients, such as cheese, is a sure-fire way to bring the family to the table for a nutritious and nurturing occasion," said Flipse. Findings from the study also categorized those responding into five distinct life-style segments.

The largest group — "Connectors" (32 percent of households) — believes most strongly that meals play an important role in creating quality family time. Not only do "Connectors" report that a good meal can be the catalyst for togetherness, they eat together more often than any other group. In addition to "Connectors," the other family segments are:

- "Preservers" (30 percent) — This very disciplined and orderly group believes in living "according to plan" and feels strongly about eating three square meals a day.

- "Strivers" (22 percent) — This group, with a high proportion of younger families and single-headed households, feels disconnected from their families. In addition whether married or single the "Strivers" feel that their families provide them with little emotional support.

- "No-Timers" (12 percent) — This group has a significant interest in the foods their kids eat and aspire toward the idea of family togetherness, even if they are not able to attain it. "No-Timers" are burdened by the responsibility of caring for a family with limited resources. They recognize the value of mealtime for creating family togetherness but lack time, money and support to live up to that ideal.

- "Strugglers" (4 percent) — This small group says the family is not their source of joy and feels no connection to neighbors or their community. Overall, they are struggling with all aspects of their lives.

The study also found that 85 percent of Americans report that they are proud of their family and 59 percent list family members as their best friends. In addition, despite the burdens facing American families today, the majority report their families to be loving (71 percent), supportive (70 percent) and happy (66 percent). In terms of food favorites, the study found that cheese is the secret ingredient for the 90s and is found in 91 percent of households surveyed.

American families who dine together more often tend to be happier than those who dine together infrequently.

Plan ahead to eat nutritiously when dining out

According to recent restaurant industry surveys, Americans eat more than 20 percent of their meals away from home - in restaurants, cafeterias, pizza parlors, sub shops, fast food restaurants and even convenience stores. Currently, fast food establishments account for four of every ten meals eaten in commercial eating establishments.

The trend in eating out is a result of busier lifestyles that emphasize convenience, says a U.S. Department of Agriculture nutrition authority. Dr. Susan Welsh, the director of USDA's Human Nutrition Information Service's Nutrition Education Division, cited figures that indicate Americans spend more than 40 percent of their food dollar and consume roughly a third of their calories and total fat eating out.

Welsh indicated many restaurants are featuring more menu selections that can fit into a nutritious and healthful eating style, and 40 percent of consumers have changed their eating-out habits to reflect nutritional concerns. However, USDA focus-group research found consumers may feel eating out is a time to "relax the rules" and that, as patrons, they may have little say over how the food is prepared.

According to Welsh, you can eat right when eating out if you make the dietary guidelines your guidelines. The dietary guidelines are seven basic principles that encourage variety, balance and moderation in food consumption. The first two guidelines encourage people to eat a variety of foods that provide enough essential nutrients and calories to maintain a desirable weight; the other five describe special characteristics of good eating, suggesting people eat an adequate amount of starch and fiber and avoid too much fat, sugar, sodium and alcohol. Welsh said, "While it's true that consumers have less control over how foods are prepared when they eat out, they do have control over which restaurants they choose, which foods they choose and how much they eat."

Choosing a restaurant

The type of restaurant you go to has a big effect on the types of foods that are available. Full-service restaurants, of course, provide the greatest variety and flexibility in the types of foods available and in preparation methods. Since items are often prepared to order, you can ask to have your food prepared differently than the menu may specify. This may require extra time, however, so you should be prepared to wait. Restaurants vary in their ability to respond to your requests. Among the things they may not be able to do are change their preparation methods, limit added fat and salt, reduce the portion size or serve sauces on the side. You can either ask your waiter or waitress about these options or call ahead to find out if your special requests can be accommodated.

- See if you can order fish, poultry or meat broiled without added fat - and have the skin removed from poultry. Ask to have salt or other ingredients omitted when the food is prepared.

- Ask about serving sizes. Find out if petite servings or half-portions are available.

- Ask about the availability of food not on the menu - low fat or skim milk, fresh fruit, etc.

Menu munchies

Sitting and talking makes meals eaten out enjoyable. But remember, calories from fat and sodium add up quickly if you're not paying attention to how much you're eating. Go easy on foods such as potato chips, peanuts or pretzels or fill up on raw vegetables instead.

- Try steamed seafood, raw vegetables or fruit for appetizers. Go easy on rich sauces, dips and batter-fried foods (cheese sticks, vegetables, chicken pieces).

- If you choose soup, have a cup rather than a bowl; most are high in sodium. Broth- and tomato-based soups are lower in fat than creamed types.

- Many crackers are high in fat and sodium so enjoy just a few and limit the spreads and dips.

Charting a nutritious main course

Keep the guidelines in mind when ordering your main course. Think about what you had or plan to have for the remainder of your day's meals. Here are some tips for choosing entrees:

- Choose meat, fish or poultry that is broiled, grilled, baked, steamed or poached rather than fried. It's possible that broiled or grilled entrees can be basted with fat, so request that lemon juice, wine or only a small amount of fat be used with yours.

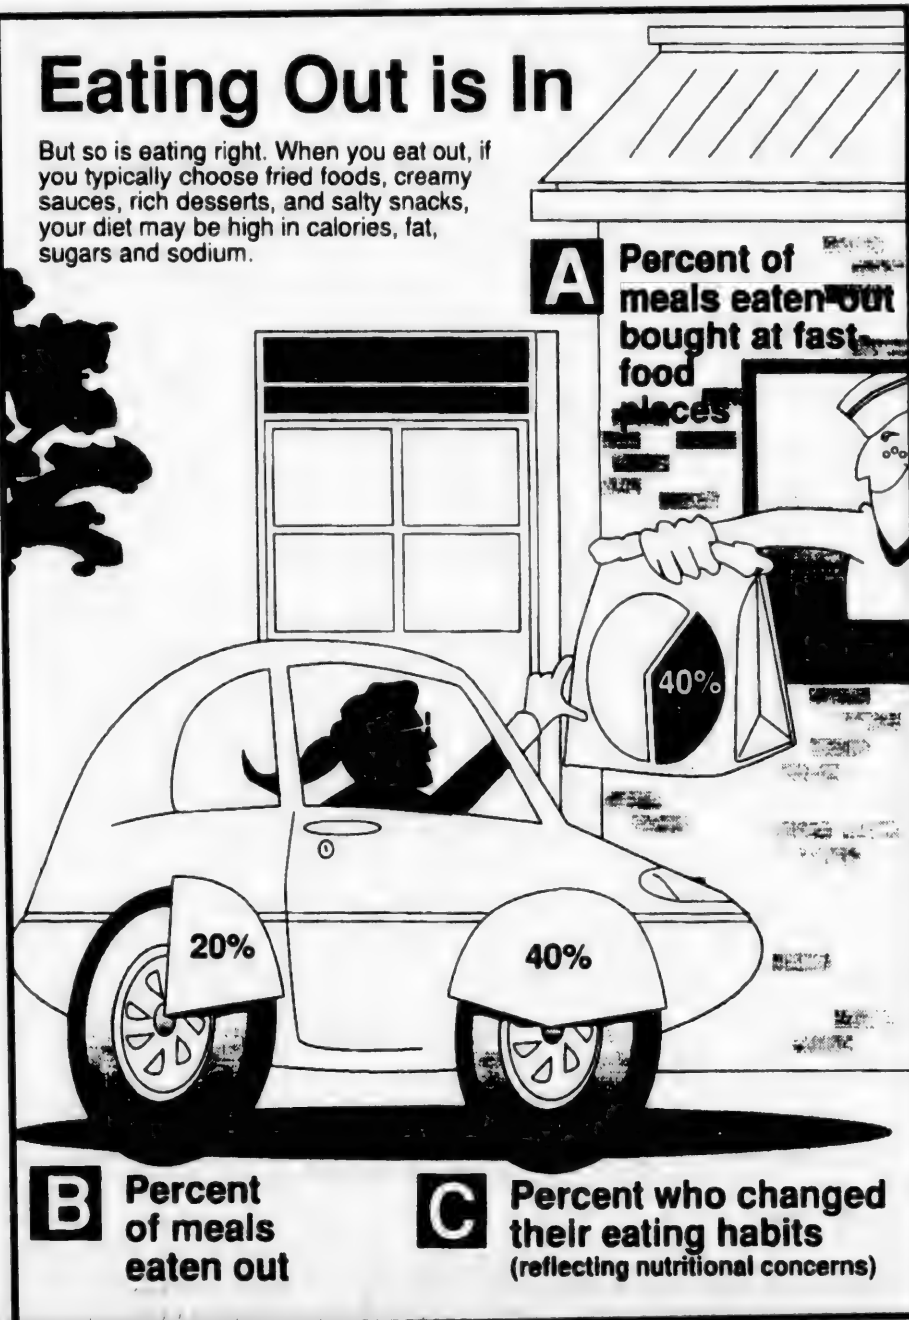

- Many restaurants serve large portions of food. If the portion you are served is larger than your usual serving, ask for a take-home container.

- Choose dishes flavored with herbs and spices rather than with rich sauces, gravies or dressings.

Restaurants vary in their ability to respond to specific requests, such as a change in preparation methods, limiting added fat and salt, reducing the portion size or serving sauces on the side. Ask your waiter or waitress about these options or call ahead to find out if your special requests can be accommodated.

Eating Out is In

But so is eating right. When you eat out, if you typically choose fried foods, creamy sauces, rich desserts, and salty snacks, your diet may be high in calories, fat, sugars and sodium.

Matching food with the right wine

The right wine can turn a good meal into a great dining experience. But how do you choose from among all those varieties?

The cellar master's tips

1. Match higher acid foods (tomatoes, citrus fruits, goat cheese) with higher acid wines (Sauvignon Blanc, Gamay Beaujolais, Pinot Noir).

2. Richer and fattier foods (duck, lamb, beef, cheese) go well with either slightly oaky white wines, such as Chardonnay, or with young red wines, such as Cabernet Sauvignon or Zinfandel.

3. Spicy, salty or smoked and more heavily seasoned dishes call for lighter, fruity, low-alcohol wines, such as Gewurztraminer, Johannisberg Riesling and Gamay Beaujolais.

4. Pair foods with some sweetness (meat or poultry dishes with fruit sauces) with wines that offer some sweetness (such as Gewurztraminer, Johannisberg Riesling, or White Zinfandel).

5. Generally, wines should follow at the table in a natural progression from dry to sweet. However, if a dish with some sweetness comes early in the meal, it is best to serve a sweet wine with it.

6. Obvious opportunities for food and wine pairing occur when a specific wine is used in the cooking process, such as in a marinade or sauce. The table wine will tend to mirror the dish.

7. Successful food and wine pairing is highly subjective and individualistic — more an experimental, dynamic art form than a science. Don't be afraid to follow your own instincts. There are no rules for right and wrong.

8. Most importantly, the food should not overwhelm the wine any more than the wine should overpower the food. Together, they should be harmonious and complementary.

Entertain in the great outdoors

It's no picnic to spend hours in a hot kitchen when it's a warm, sunny day outside. So go have a picnic instead!

A picnic is one of the best ways to enjoy family, friends and warm weather. Take your picnic basket and head to a music festival, the beach or the local park. Whatever your destination — even if it's just the backyard barbecue — a little innovation and advance planning can make your picnic enjoyable for everyone.

• Use your creativity when planning the menu. If everyone loves the family recipe for potato salad, be sure to include it, but try some new favorites as well.

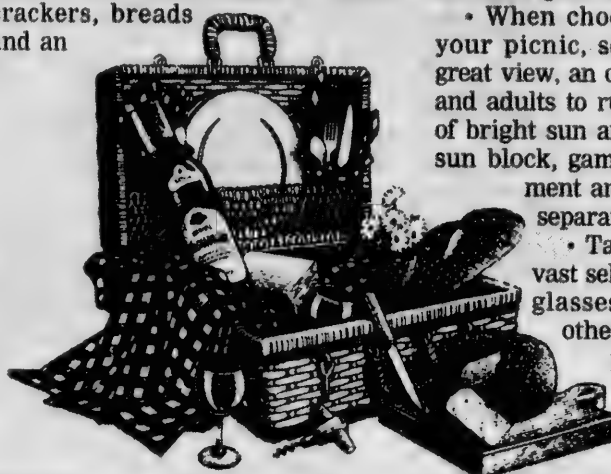

• No time to cook? No problem. Head to your favorite deli for cheese, crackers, breads and an assortment of salads. Or, pick up a collection of sandwiches and let everyone choose their favorite.

• If you're serving wine, Franzia Winetaps are a great choice for picnics. This quality wine comes in a box, not a bottle so it stays cooler, longer, because the cardboard box acts as an insulator. With wine in a box there's no glass to break and no corkscrew to forget. The special tap allows you to pour wine one glass at a time while keeping oxygen out of the package, so it stays fresh for three months or more. If it rains on your picnic, you can use the handles to pick up the wine, take it home and enjoy it another time. Varieties include Franzia Chardonnay, Cabernet Sauvignon and White Zinfandel.

• When choosing a location for your picnic, select a place with a great view, an open area for children and adults to run around and a mix of bright sun and shady areas. Pack sun block, games and sports equipment and other supplies in a separate bag.

• Take advantage of the vast selection of plastic wine glasses, paper plates and other unbreakables from your favorite supermarket or party supply store to minimize the clean up.

Easy and sophisticated entertaining

A romantic dinner for two with an elegant marinated swordfish and an after the game team supper with barbecued ribs piled high on a platter. What do they have in common? Each can be prepared effortlessly on a grill. Grilling is a fun and sophisticated way to entertain. Perhaps best of all, grilling allows most of the preparation to be done in advance thus leaving plenty of time to spend with your guests.

Homemade sauces and glazes made from spreadable fruits can make grilled foods more appetizing. Spreadable fruits sweetened with fruit juice concentrates transform an ordinary dish into a finger-licking feast by adding a fruity flavor and sweetness to sauces and glazes. The Polaner Test Kitchen has created these quick and easy recipes from ordinary ingredients that you're likely to already have on hand and are perfect for last minute get-togethers.

- Bottled barbecue sauce is perfect in a pinch but even better with a fruity twist. Combine equal amounts of barbecue sauce with your favorite fruit preserves. Brush onto ribs during the last five minutes of grilling.

- Strawberry Mustard Glaze is a golden, tangy addition to grilled chicken. Combine 1/2 cup strawberry jam or jelly, 2 tablespoons spicy brown mustard and 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder. Brush onto chicken during the last five minutes of grilling or use as a sauce for dipping.

- Peachy Orange Glaze is a fruit lover's delight. Combine 1/2 cup peach preserves, 2 tablespoons orange juice and 1/4 teaspoon curry for a light and fruity flavor. Brush onto chicken or pork chops during the last five minutes of grilling or use as a sauce for dipping.

- Don't forget dessert. Create a sensational chilled fruit fondue. Place 40 ounces low fat vanilla yogurt in a cheesecloth-lined strainer. Cover and refrigerate. Allow to drain for two hours. Gently fold in 3/4 cup strawberry preserves. Chill until ready to serve. Spoon sauce into hollowed out orange halves for an extra special treat. Serve with cut-up fruit.

- A warm fruit topping for ice cream is a delicious ending to a perfect dinner. Simply place 1 cup of your favorite fruit jelly in a microwave safe container. Microwave on HIGH 30 seconds or until warm. Stir before serving.

When time is a little more available the following recipes are worth the extra effort. Sweet and Spicy Sauce has a subtle sweetness and mild heat that is excellent for chicken and ribs. For a more delicate sauce with pork or chicken, Peachy Ginger Sauce is a good choice.

Sweet and Spicy Sauce

The subtle sweetness and mild heat is excellent for chicken and ribs.

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 medium onion, chopped
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 can (15 oz.) tomato sauce
2/3 cup cider vinegar
2/3 cup apricot preserves
2 tablespoons chili powder
1 tablespoon spicy brown mustard
1/2 teaspoon black pepper

In a large skillet saute onion and garlic in melted butter until tender, about five minutes. Add remaining ingredients, heat to a boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 20 minutes or until thickened, stirring occasionally. Brush onto ribs or chicken during last 5 minutes of grilling. Makes about 3 cups (enough for six pounds meat).

Peachy Ginger Sauce

Peach and ginger are a must with chicken or pork. Brush onto chicken during the last 5 minutes of grilling.

1 jar (10 oz.) peach preserves
1 tablespoon soy sauce
2 teaspoons dry rosemary
1/2 teaspoon ground ginger

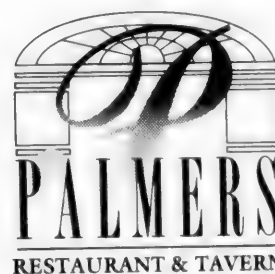

In a small saucepan combine ingredients. Cook on low stirring frequently until warm and smooth. Brush onto chicken or pork during last five minutes of grilling. Makes about 1 cup (enough for two pounds meat).

Southern cuisine: An American melting pot

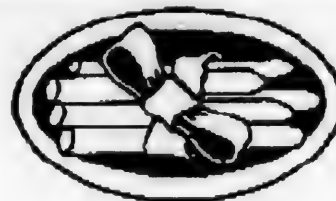

America is often described as a melting pot of cultures and traditions. And with these come different ways of living, learning — and eating. Some of the more popular ethnic styles that have influenced American dining are Asian, Italian, Chinese and Mexican foods. One American style, in particular, continues to make a name for itself — Southern cuisine.

Some of the more popular Southern foods are Cajun, Creole and African-American which incorporate a variety of hearty foods like beans, okra, corn bread and gumbos.

Southern style cuisine was influenced by immigrants from France, Africa and Spain. Since many of the necessary traditional ingredients were not available in the United States, they used local ingredients that had original flavors, now identified with Southern cuisine.

The key to preparing Southern style food is using authentic flavors like basil, cumin, mace and chiles along with dried or canned beans, rice, and fresh vegetables and herbs.
